

10/14/89 - a couple of close calls:

- 1) almost burned boiling turkey legs for soup: they had been boiling for a hour or so and the three or four cups of water, soup base, were about 15 seconds from being completely boiled away when I came in from the garden, where I was working and forgot about the soup in progress. The bottom of the pan was crackling brown with soup essence - I immediately poured in more water and turkey broth came into existence before my eyes.
- 2) the Black orpington Cock almost died: as I was feeding the birds in the large coop, the rooster alone was crowing and carrying on as usual. The Black orpington gave forth 1766

with his usual crow and then suddenly fell over and started flapping his wings frantically, as if he were <sup>being</sup> suffocated or choking or having a seizure of some kind. His face and comb were purple/black. SRP helpless.
 I left the coop, thinking it was all over, and went in and got the shovel and dug a large,
 very large, and very deep hole in the flower garden in which to bury the poor dear — a fabulous bird and the King pin
 in my strain of Black orpington.
 As I dug the hole I made plans on how I would acquire a new "King pin" — not easy, but I would re-come. I went back to the coop to get the 1967

cock bird and bury him quickly when, lo and behold, he was standing up and cheerfully looking out at me! I could not believe my eyes. He was panting and appeared to be worn out from the "seizure" / attack / whatever it was, but otherwise was perfectly normal. I think I should write to one of the poultry veterinarians and describe what happened and see what their response is. I have never seen anything like it.

And so, the soup was saved and the Black orpington is alive & well.

10/14/89 - Garden: worked for no less than 3 hours today at tidying up the garden: removing dead flowers, weeding, moving perennials, pruning raspberries and thinking about Spring. I want to have everything all set to go/grow as soon as the first warm days of Spring arrive.

Lunch with Mom & Dad - Hamburgers, pear, carrots, pickled beets, boiled potatoes and Mom's Gingerbread. We talked about the beautiful autumn weather of the past couple days. Dad described the walk up from Mud Pond to the Park office as "as pretty a walk through the woods as you could want."

after lunch I went up to Merli-Sarnowski Park and visited with 1769

DWP and DWP II. DWP II is growing by the proverbial leaps and bounds and he is always enthusiastic in his greeting to me. Naturally I encourage his every enthusiasm. So much of the future of the Powell / Russell line revolves around DWP II — the next 25 years will be very interesting. DWP and I, of course, will do everything in our power on behalf of DWP II and the next century. We can plan and scheme and prepare the way but we can not force the issue. It must happen naturally — and so it will.

10-15-89 - Sunday - a very beautiful autumn day: temperatures in the 70's and full sun. Again today I worked for about three hours in the garden and it is shaping up nicely: weeding and tilling
and moving perennials. No objection is to have everything all set for warm weather growing, and there is a lot that can be done in the fall.
Several of the phlox plants will have to be divided but that will be done in the Spring. I want to think more carefully where I want the Phlox. I also have a large quantity of lupine, columbine, hollyhock,
poppy seeds that I want to plant
this fall; also some wild sweet pea seeds from Dad. Also fussed about in the new hen house - roost adjustments and laying box

arrangements. I continue to be very <sup>2.</sup> optimistic about the winter - worthiness of the new poultry coop. There are just three or four old hens that continue to roost in the old coop - I will allow them to do so until the final lock up for the winter.
With any luck, I will not have frozen water dishes to deal with this year and die last year,
and previous winters. Oh well.
I believe that I will move the male Guinean Fowl into the new coop for the winter. If he becomes too bossy with the chickens and bantams, I will put him in one of the rooster cages and that will be that. If the quail decide to "come in," I will put them in the game coop with the male ringneck pheasant.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING
Carbondale Public Library
September 19, 1989

*No quorum at 10/17/89 meeting;
there minutes
have not been publicly read.*

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library took place in the Board Room of the Library building on September 19, 1989, beginning at 7:30 P.M. Present at the meeting were: Ann Muldoon, Walter Washeleski, Aubrey Staples, Bob Vandenberg, Bill Kaufmann, Joseph Pascoe, David Saint Ledger, Hank Loftus, Sally Felix. The meeting was chaired by Bob Vandenberg, President, who introduced Richard Carr, Director of Community Development for the city of Carbondale. Mr. Carr reported that the grant for $13,500 of Community Development funds to the Library had been approved and that it is now a question of waiting for the funds to be released. Mr. Carr suggested that the funds would be released in about 30 days. The funds will be used by the Library to construct access facilities for the use of handicapped persons. Mr. Carr pointed out that since Federal dollars were involved in the grant that Federal regulations must be followed in implementing this construction program. This means, specifically, that Davis/Bacon wage rates must be followed (a laborer, for example, must be paid no less than $13.36 per hour) and that competitive bidding must be followed because more than $2,000 is involved (legal ads asking for bids should be published three times and there should be a ten-day period following the last published ad before the bids are opened). Mr. Carr pointed out, in addition, that the construction project must be completed by July 1994. The total construction project envisioned by the Library at present will cost, it is estimated, $76,627. Bob Vandenberg thanked Mr. Carr for coming to the meeting and for his report. Mr. Carr then took his leave.

The minutes of the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library for June 20, 1989 were then read by S. Robert Powell. It was moved (Bill Kaufmann) and seconded (Joseph Pascoe) that the minutes be approved as read. The motion carried. Aubrey Staples, Acting Treasurer, then read the Treasurer's Report for the months of June, July and August. It was moved (Walter Washeleski) and seconded (Bill Kaufmann) that the Treasurer's Report be approved as read. The motion carried.

Bob Vandenberg reported that Gloria Wilson resigned from the Board on July 10, 1989 so that she could begin serving on the County Library Board, effective from July 11, 1989. It was moved (Staples) and seconded (St. Ledger) that the Board send Miss Wilson a letter of thanks for her years of service to the Carbondale Board. The motion carried.

Bob Vandenberg pointed out that there are now three vacancies on the Library Board and that all present members should be on the look out for candidates for those three positions.

A letter, dated July 14, 1989, was received, Mr. Vandenberg reported, from the Carbondale Area School Board (signed by Mr. Como) stating that the Carbondale Area School District will not hold classes (under the AHERA Act) at the Carbondale Public Library building because of the asbestos in the building, which will cost $3,000 to remove. Last year the Library was paid no less than $800 by the Carbondale Area School District for the use of the Board Room to hold classes.

Sally Felix then gave a report. She indicated that the State budget was not increased beyond the initially stated 3% for libraries. She also indicated that summer readers had borrowed more than 10,000 books from the various county libraries this summer. All persons who successfully completed the summer reading program were rewarded with free Red Barons tickets ($2 per ticket cost to the County). She also reported that through Senator Mellow the County Library system will be awarded $40,000 for computer equipment so that all libraries can participate in the Access Pennsylvania data base. She indicated that all Board members should make it a point to thank Senator Mellow for this funding. A field trip to the Delaware County Library System on Wednesday, October 18, 1989, was announced by Sally Felix. That system has done some very interesting things in the areas of marketing, mechanizing and physical arrangements and their circulation is up 40%, which, she added, is remarkable for any library, let alone a library in a blue-collar area such as the one served by the Delaware County system. She asked that at least one staff person and one board person from Carbondale attend the meeting. Bill Kaufmann, Bob Vandenberg, Hank Loftus and Ann Muldoon will go on the field trip.

On the matter of the roof problem, Bob Vandenberg reported that Jerry Howard is now out of business. A new contractor/roof person will have to be located to take care of the drain problem on the Library's roof. An examination of the drain and the problem to be solved was projected on the screen of the Library's microfilm reader/printer in the Board Room. The projection of the color slide was made possible by by audio-visual skills of Hank Loftus. Bob also reported that despite the newly-installed protective screens at the top of the Library's fire escape that Carbondale children had gained access to the rooftops along Sixth Avenue via the Library's fire escape during Pioneer Days 1989. Bob Vandenberg reported that $813 had been recently donated to the Library by Gentex from their Summer recreation fund. It was recommended by the board that a letter of thanks be sent to Carl Lukas at Gentex for that company's generosity to the Library.

At 8:40 P.M., it was moved (Staples) and seconded (Pascoe) that the September meeting be adjourned. The motion carried.

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell

Dear Robert + Folks,

I am acting as Edith's secretary as she has trouble writing.

We are wondering what happened last Sat. that you didn't get here. We looked for you all day long. Edith thought maybe the chickens caught cold or you couldn't find the street. We were sorry you didn't get here.

We were glad to have the new furnace installed and working.

We came back on Tues. the 26th as she had her appointment changed to Mon. with Dr. McNabb.

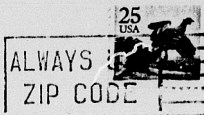

Best regards to your mother and the rest of the family.

Hope to see you in Nov.

Best of everything.

FLYING TIPPLER ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA
on the ten F.T.A. flies for 1989, Zone I.

Please note that all Official System fly times are given before all Honor System fly times. Please note, in addition, that ALL times reported to the Central Timer are given in this list, including those times that have been disqualified. Disqualified times are here reported because it is important to know how all competing kits performed in a given fly, even if those kits have been disqualified. Disqualified times, of course, earn the flyers in question zero for a time. Disqualified times, in addition, are not included in the Honor Rolls.

You will be interested to know that 11 F.T.A. members (Basic, Kelly, Kobulsky, Kvidera, Lukez, Mead, Ogozalek, O'Rourke, Powell, Zamanian, Zovich) entered a total of 53 of the flies for 1989, Zone I. (If all of those flyers had entered the ten Zone I flies there would have been a total of 110 flies entered.) Those 11 flyers paid a total of $82.56 in entry fees and those funds have all been forwarded by the Central Timer to Felix Khan for deposit.

After the 10 flies for Zone I, nine new fly times, all Official System, have been added to the 1989 F.T.A. Honor Rolls:

Spring I	Oskar Zovich	15:10
Spring II	Oskar Zovich	15:39
Spring II	John Mead	15:08
Summer I	Small Basic	15:08
Summer II	Milan Kobulsky	15:39
Summer III	Al Lukez	13:59
Fall II	Al Lukez	12:19
Fall III	Milan Kobulsky	11:47
Fall IV	Milan Kobulsky	11:34

Our congratulations to those flyers on their achievements. Milan Kobulsky's time (11:34) for the Fall IV fly (the Stock Fly) is a new F.T.A. record for that fly.

No new fly times, Honor System, have been added to the 1989 Honor Rolls after the 10 flies for Zone I, 1989.

The Central Timer has received 36 fly reports for the 10 flies in Zone I this year: 14 Spring Series (11 Official System, 3 Honor System), 12 Summer Series (6 Official System, 6 Honor System), and 10 Fall Series (7 Official System, 3 Honor System). Nine of those 36 fly times have been disqualified: Spring Series (4 Official System, 0 Honor System), Summer Series (1 Official System, 2 Honor System), Fall Series (1 Official System, 1 Honor System).

Dear Donald & Robert:-

Miss having you near where we can visit now and then. You asked where is Chuck's place.

Come up the north and south
by the Church. Keep on going, it is quite a stretch. When you come to the V in the road above Curtis Valley, take the right fork. At the top of Wheeler Hill, cross over the Bethany turnpike, likewise, cross over the Newburgh Turnpike. After a few more miles you will come to a left turn that goes to Poyntelle, straight ahead goes to Lakewood. Turn toward Poyntelle and it is the first place, - on a hill, a big house,
and a bigger barn.

I head by the grapevine,

that Rev. Richner is claiming relationship to the Gardners,
and that he is bragging
about playing up to them
for their money. (1)(1)(1)(1)(1)

Chuckie tells me that the minutes of the Church meeting
where Richner attacked me, have been altered (He has done some driving for Flovie)

The rainy spell has stopped at least temporarily. It is still hot, but not quite so hot. We use the air conditioner days,
and the big fan nights, and
of course the Car has its own,
Well in all, it is quite bearable

Here, at least, we don't have stain
it is a help. I do some work outside when it is fit. Took out 2 wheelbarrow loads of dead rose bushes. Wee Oh.

Love, Norman & Alice

10/17/89 - CAHS (Mrs. Kania), my 6th day in a row here; very unusual, and beneficial to SRP financially. My quarterly medical insurance
payment is due next Friday - 10/27/89
and my funds are getting low.
Without these recent days of substituting, I would have had trouble making the payment. Everything should work out OK it now appears.
The Sussex County Poultry Fanciers' Fall Show is this weekend and I will attend. I may accept George Schneider's offer to take my birds down and coop them
in; I would go down on Sunday and spend the day and pick them up. Final plans not yet clear. Entered the Garden State Poultry Fanciers' Assn. Fall

Show today - entered five birds: 2.

all standards [ Black orpington pullet Wheaten Ameraucana pullet
Partridge Plymouth Rock pullet
Goeden-Laced Wyandotte cockerel
Black breasted Red American game
fantam pullet

The Garden State show should be very nice; they will even have an auction on Sunday at noon. again, George Schroeder is to judge. Maybe he will take my birds down on Friday night or Saturday. That would be very convenient for me if he will do that. The Garden State show is the 2nd week end of November - the birds should be in great shape by then.

Dear Alice & Norman,

Thanks for your letter and the directions to Chuckie's place. I will do my best to pay him a visit.

Enclosed is a copy of a letter that Housam wrote me on 9/26/89;
I was pleased to see that a copy
was sent to Richner. Housam, of course, is on Richner's side since they are two peas in the ABA pod. Housam seems to be saying to me: since you are not a member, mind your own business. You are members, however, and so he can't tell you to mind your own business or stay out of it.

1792

The money-grubbing behavior of so many of the American Baptist ministers really galls me. I am not surprised to learn that Hitler is playing up to the Gardners. I will never be able to forgive Pip Squeak for sidetracking for the ABA the $10,000 that Margaret Rude had planned to give to the Clinton Church.

Hitler's motives are equally as reprehensible. He and the ABA are betting that the Clinton Church will soon close. What happens to the Church's funds at that point?

My guess is that the ASA will seize the funds.

What good is the ASA to the Clinton Church? Perhaps I'm not seeing the complete picture, but my perception of the situation is that the Clinton Church benefits not at all from its ASA affiliation. If I were a member of the Clinton Church, I would propose to the congregation that it withdraw immediately from the ASA.

Housam and Hitler are not at all concerned with "Christ's"
1794

Kingdom at Clinton Center Church" 4.
(as Housam calls it) — they are concerned only with their pensions and retirement benefits and the amenities at the AOA's corporate headquarters.

If I were you, I would notify the AOA that the Clinton Church's meeting minutes have been altered.

Glad to hear that you're both OK. What a tragedy to loose two wheelbarrows full of dead roses!

Poetry show season is now
in high gear: this coming weekend I will show birds

at a big show in Augusta, N.J.;
 next weekend, at York; in early November at the Garden State Show. I am wholeheartedly
 "for the birds" these days, and I am having a grand time —
 and doing my share of winning.
 I recently built a new

Chicken Coop that is 12' x 16' x 8';
 I'm not a builder by any means but I am quite proud of my new poultry palace.
 I raise: orpingtons, Wyandottes, Ameraucanas, Jersey Giants,
 Dorkings, among others.

I hope you are well.

CAHS encore une fois. Hard to believe, but pleasant nevertheless. It appears that there are not many people on the substitute list and that is wonderful. During these past several days I have devoted a good deal of time to sorting through and annotating my "letters received" from the early 1960's: very informative and evocative. I find that I want to go and visit--re-locate and visit--several of the people that I knew at that time. When I have completed the preliminary sort-through I will have the entire series microfilmed. Last night SRP "testified" at a meeting held here in the CAHS on the proposed "Heritage Park" that will encompass the entire Lackawanna Valley--from Forest City to Nanticoke. The National Park Service is involved and so I am optimistic that it will become a reality. A very nice person by the name of Debbie Daran chaired the meeting last night and Anna Cummings represented the Carbondale group. The Mayor and Paul Browne were there of course as were several members of City Council (Tolerico, Leo, McDonough). SRP held forth on several occasions and I must say that I was/am proud of my presentation. One of the "attractions" in the Upper Lackawanna Valley that I made sure to have included in the proposed Heritage Park is the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, Inc. And I was very pleased to see that the National Park Service wrote down the name of the organization on the list of attractions.

Il parait que l'hiver commence. This morning I decided not to release the chickens: and they appeared to settle into their in-coop routines sans difficulté: much scratching and singing as I took my leave for CAHS. I'm not sure what the problem/malady is, but there are several birds that have some kind of a cold. Not too much coughing and sneezing, but some have swollen eyes and faces. Fortunately they respond very well to terramycin. As a precaution, I gave the ill birds a worm pill and the worst appears to be over.

A significant earth quake struck in the San Francisco area last night at about 5:00 P.M.--during the evening rush hour and there were many killed. Naturally I am sorry to hear of the deaths but I must say that I question the intelligence of the people who have erected houses directly on top of (or very near to) the San Andreas fault. To do so is to invite trouble and trouble arrived last night at 5:00 P.M. or so. I'm sure that the earth quake is the only topic of presentation on all of the television stations this morning and I'm sure that they all have live coverage from the West coast.

A major push to get Historical Society matters in order will have to take place towards the end of this week: the membership renewal process will have to be put in motion and I will have to write and produce a newsletter before November 6th. Regrettably I am the only one who can make this happen and so I will have to bite the nail and do it.

10/31/89 - not one person has even mentioned this article to me! I guess no writer for those who come after me. "Frères humains qui après nous vivez ...".

Gymanfa Ganu celebrated in Clifford

By S. Robert Powell
The annual September Gymnanfa at the Bethel Congregational Church, Welsh Hill, Clifford Township, took place on Sunday, September 24, beginning at 3 p.m. The church was decorated for the occasion with pink and purple dahlias. A black banner with a red Welsh dragon on it was hung at the front of the lectern for the occasion.

This "Festival of Sacred Song" began with welcoming remarks by Rev. Kenneth McCrea, pastor of the church, who asked the group to sing the hymn "The Great God" about the church building. Then, on June 1989 Gymnanfa Ganu. He then pointed out the new ceiling fan, the indirect lighting just below the level of the ceiling, and the new conservative marble plaque on the wall of the sanctuary. The art on the new plaque is of the same style as the three older plaques on the sanctuary's walls, is as follows: "In honor of the Rev. Garford F. Williams, 1856-1988, in thanksgiving to God for his long and faithful service to God's kingdom and this congregation."

Rev. McCrea then introduced Donald T. Davis, the song leader for the service, who asked everyone present to stand and to shake the hand of at least four other persons in the church. This resulted in the establishment of a relaxed and cordial atmosphere throughout the church. The congregation, led by Mr. Davis, then sang the Welsh national anthem, "Hen Wlad Fy Nhadau" (The Land of My Fathers). This was followed with the singing of "Dudum - All Hail the Power."

Rev. McCrea then introduced Melody Klinger, who played on the piano with great enthusiasm. "Sing the Mighty Power of God," Donald Davis next introduced Maude Thomas and Mrs. Betty Moore, the organist and pianist, who joyfully and enthusiastically led the soloists for the service. Mr. Davis, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Moore have led these festivals of song at Bethel Congregational Church for the past 17 years. Mr. Davis then announced that the service was dedicated to the glory and honor of Jesus Christ and remarked that in the old days "Gymnafoedd" were always preceded by a rehearsal. Without the benefit of a rehearsal, the congregation then sang "Sandon," "Fachie - Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Penparc - Jesus I Live to Thee."

Melody Klinger then witnessed to her belief in Jesus Christ and played on the piano "It Is Well With My Soul." Melody Klinger is an accomplished musician who makes tapes of religious music and they are available to the public. She is the organist at the church. Her husband, Dr. David, is a Bryn Mawr and Haverford University student who is following a musical solo performed by her.

The service was followed by a beautiful solo performed by Susan Decker of That Wonderful Mother of Mine. "The congregation then sang 'Calon Len - I Seek Not Life's Ease and Pleased' and 'O My Father, I Surrender' and 'Sweet Home'." The service followed by the afternoon's offering followed by the hymn "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Davis then pointed out that in the old days Welsh festivals of sacred song used to be day-long events with an afternoon and evening Gymnanfa and an open musical program in between. In addition, the Ladies' Aid Society of the church used to serve a dinner to all who participated.

The congregation at Bethel Congregational Church then sang Mr. Davis' favorite hymn, "Blodwen," and Mr. Davis declared their performance to be very good. This was followed by the congregation's singing of "Aberystwyth."

Susan Decker then sang "Jesus Loves Me" and this was followed by Mr. Davis' teaching the congregation how to say Merry Christmas and Happy New Year in Welsh. "Most of us won't see each other again until next year," said Mr. Davis, "but we can be sure and wish all Merry Christmas and Happy New Year," said Mr. Davis, who then led the congregation in singing "Make Me a Blessing."

In addition to the large group of members from the Bethel Congregational Church, there were many visitors in the church and Mr. Davis polled the group to determine where they lived. Visitors from New Milford Gouldsboro and Philadelphia were in the group. Members of the clergy present were Rev. David Allen of Clifford and Rev. and Mrs. Gordon S. Wilson of the Berean Baptist Church of Carbondale. Also from the Berean Baptist Church were Liz Sheridan, Catherine and Marilyn Shoppy, Doris and Francis Tonkin, Elinore Cooper, Hannah Morgan, Donald W. Powell, Donald W. Powell II, and S.R. Powell.

Clarence Decker then sang "Just a Closer Walk With Thee." Rev. McCrea then announced that since the church's public address system had been fixed that the afternoon's service was being broadcast from the church's steeple to shut-ins in the vicinity of the church and that the service could be heard two-thirds of a mile from the church building. Rev. McCrea again thanked Mr. Davis, Ms. Thomas, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Klinger, Mr. Docker and Miss Decker for their participation in the service and remarked that the service was being videotaped by Mr. Davis' son for viewing by Mr. Davis' mother and Uncle Harry.

The congregation then sang "Cwm Rhondda - Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah" and "God Be With You." Rev. McCrea offered a benediction and then invited everyone to the Welsh Tea in the church house across the road from the Bethel Congregational Church.

This beautiful afternoon of song and fellowship was perfectly described by Mrs. Ruth Hasbrouck of Clifford who, at the close of the service, remarked to Mrs. Rachel Machell of Clifford: "Just as nice as ever."

The Welsh settlement of Welsh Hill was begun by Thomas and Hannah Watkins, natives of Carmarthenshire, South Wales, who left that country in 1831, and after a voyage of two months landed in New York.

The present Bethel Congregational Church building (the third in the church's history) was dedicated on June 10, 1888.

The next Gymanfa Ganu to be held in the Bethel Congregational Church will take place on Sunday, June 24, 1990. The public is invited to attend.

Veteran pilot Jack Race, Crystal Lake, received a hearty "Welcome Home" as approximately 250 well-wishers gathered at the Clifford airport on Sunday, Oct. 15 to greet Race and his wife, Kathleen, as they returned from a tour of duty in contiguous states. Piloting his 1940 Waco biplane, Captain Race publicized the work being performed by Project Orbis by retracing the 1927 flight path of Charles Lindbergh. Race volunteers

Teresa A. Brandt
Director of Personnel
Keystone Junior College
P.O. Box 50
LaPlume, PA 18440

Dear Ms Brandt:

I am writing in support of my constituent S. Robert Powell's application for the position of Director of Alumni Relations and Annual Fund for Keystone Junior College.

It gives me great pleasure to recommend Bob for a position for which he is so well fitted and in which he would do a superb job. I have known Bob for a number of years and know, first hand, of the effective direction and leadership he provides. As president of the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, of which I am a member, and in many civic and business arenas, Bob leads by example and communication, bringing out the best in others to achieve commonly desired goals.

The wide experience and intelligence he brings to the many worthwhile projects that depend upon him assures them of distinction and success. Those qualities also, coupled with imagination and enthusiasm, make him an excellent administrator who effectively uses his own and others' talents to find satisfying and creative solutions to problems.

Bob's interests, the content of his work and his skills as a volunteer fund raiser and recruiter, I believe, make him an excellent candidate for the position you describe. Nothing Bob would do would ever be a minimal or a run of the mill effort, but would be conceived, planned and executed with discretion, style and effectiveness.

I urge your careful review of S. Robert Powell's credentials. I feel sure that his selection would be a benefit to Keystone and would have a positive effect on alumni relations and alumni giving.

Please contact me at my office should you need further information.

Sincerely,

10-19-89 - The present seen through the screen of the past: I have of late devoted much time to working on my "letter received" from 1957 on,
and the process is having an amazing effect on me: the people that I know/associate with at present have thrown into the scales and most of them have been found wanting.
But then, how could anyone possibly compete with such people as Eleanor Jones & Joey Winder, Edna Loomis, Virginia
Jones, John English, Joan Keefe, Joel, Earl & Monique, Bob Scully, Jay & Nancy, among many others. People from the present such as Alvin Seaman & family, Cecil and Mary Rose, DWP, George

Schroeder, of course, are brilliant examples of present-day friends who easily hold their own and show themselves to be on the same level with "the stars of the past."

But many others in the common herd at present fair badly by comparison with the past.

Not surprisingly, I now feel strengthened / re-juvenated / re-vitalized by the energy transmitted to me at present by coming across these names and faces du passé

10/20/89 - The late Fall rain/wind have abated somewhat, but it is still very nasty out. The poultry have been locked in for the past three days and are now the worse for wear - the new coop appears to be working well. I continue to be very optimistic about the effectiveness of the coop as a winter shelter: warm and dry.

Yesterday afternoon as I returned here (Elkdale) at about 4:15 P.M., my car and I missed being hit by an 18" in diameter tree by no more than 15 seconds! - and all this happened just at the crest of the hill out front. As I pulled into my driveway I noted that the utility pole out front was

shaking dangerously and the wires
were being whipped up and down in huge waves. I was sure the wires would be ripped from my building. Suddenly it stopped.
The car that was following me down the hill from Sundoff never came by and the car that went up by as I was pulling into the driveway came backing down the hill. I then realized what had happened.
I drove up and had a look & sure enough — a very large tree had fallen across the road
and taken down the utility wires. Too close for comfort. 1906

If I had been 15 seconds slower in <sup>3</sup>.
Coming down the hill, I would very likely be dead at present.

That's a sobering thought, to be sure. Throughout the night the winds continued to howl away:
branches and limbs down everywhere: Nature pruning trees.

The new poultry house has withstood the storm perfectly. I am pleased to report that the entire flock is making a very nice adjustment to the coop/winter quarters.

They are getting along very well. Tonight I moved the old male Guinea Fowl inside - in the pen between the Black Oryington Cock
and the Black Jersey Giant Cock. 1907

The old male Bobwhite was around out 4.
back tonight but the 4 young birds (2 pair) were not to be seen. He called out at dark but no answer came from the back meadow. I have still not decided what will be the winter plan for the quail, although my thought at the moment is that I would put them all in where the male Guinea was if I could catch them right now. We shall see.

I am all set to travel to Augusta, N.S., tomorrow morning at 7 A.M. or earlier and take with my 4 birds for the Sussex County Poultry Fancier's Fall
Show - I will take two

Black-breasted Red American Game
bantam pullets, one standard Black orpington pullet and one standard wheaten americana pullet. I was going to take (and have entered) my best standard Black orpington hen, but she is moulting
very heavily at present and is quite a sight. So I will take the four pullets. I believe that I will stay until about mid-day and then go back on Sunday and pick up the birds.
George Schroeder will be there and,
of course, everyone will have read my article on him in the current issue of Poultry Press
and that should be interesting.

10/21-22/1989 - Sussex County (NJ) Poultry
Fanciers' Fall Show. Sat up around 5 A.M. and packed up the birds and was on my way by 6 A.M. Drove down via Route 81, 84 and then 206 in NJ - about 93 miles (came home via Route 6 in PA and it is much more pleasant, shorter and faster - about 78 miles). Arrived at Augusta before 8 A.M., although I am not certain of the time, and cooped in: my two D.D.R. American Game Bantams were the only ones
in the show; there were two other Americana shown besides my Wheaten pullet - they were shown by Barbara Charles, 223
Lackawanna Drive, Stanhope, NJ 07874. Her pair of birds are beautiful (as in my Wheaten pullet) — the male seem to be colored like a Salmon Faverolle & the female somewhat partridge in color. There were three orpingtons in the show: my Black pullet and two Buff hens, no very beautiful. Having cooped in, & then did the tour of the show — and there were beautiful birds everywhere.

also, I noted the following:

- Silver Gray Dorking hen (not as nice as mine) shown by Robert R. Rhodes, 133 Millville Street, Wrentham, MA 01756
- Partridge Plymouth Rocks — shown by Jerry & Arlene Sliker, Layton NJ 07851, and Fred Dumes, 1818

119 Cedarhurst avenue, West Patterson,
N.J. 07474. There were about 10 standard Partridge Rocks on exhibit and one or two of them were nice. Most of them were shown by the SLICKERS and the birds had heavily wrinkled and peculiar looking eyes. My pullet will hold her own in any competition.

- Robert R. <sup>RHODES</sup> Rhoden from Mendon, MA also showed a Golden Laced
Wyandotte male - the only B-L Wyandotte shown & not nearly as nice as my cockerel
- lots of Birchen Modern Game
fantails, most of them shown by Carl Pannicke, 666 Grove
Street, Clifton, NJ 07013, and 1819

Betty Lou Hami, Montoursville, PA.

(Her husband Carl is a nice guy; Betty Lou is a ditsy arrogant dame and I don't like her at all). I asked Carl Pannicke how to dub the cockerels and he was very helpful and supportive. Very shortly I will dub my three cockerels.

There was a large sales area at the show and I purchased a nice pair of Cuckoo Antwerp Bantams from Edington and Freeman, Rt. 202, Hollis Center, Maine. Nice birds and he sold me them for $15.00 — they are this year's birds. I spent a couple hours visiting with the show regular (Anke, Campfield, Dick and Thola Waldau, George Schroeder, and others) and then took my leave. So many of the exhibitors become so up-tight and nervous at the show that they almost can't talk. They are only concerned with winning and none of the human interaction that is such an important and interesting part of the show. Many exhibitors strut about like little banty roosters and are much too important to talk with anyone.

Schroeder & Anke and another man complimented me on the Poultry Press articles and photographs; Campfield never even said a 1891

word, and I even arranged to have<sup>6</sup>
a very good photograph of him
published in the current issue of Poetry Press. Such bad manners.
I ought to put them on the spot and ask them straight out if they saw the article; Campfield never even thanked me for the color photograph that I mailed directly to him. Returned to Eekdale via Route 6 and went to BDC and did some church work; OWP did X exploring. Sunday morning I got up at 9 A.M. and drove to Augusta - very easy and pleasant drive. Lots of activity in the show
building: Cecil and Mary Rose<sup>1922</sup>

new there, of course, even though Cecil did not show any birds. He seemed disappointed that I did not show the Jersey Giants that he gave me after Bloomsburg.

SRP: "I thought I'd wait a bit. I've had them such a short time that I think they still belong to you." That is the truth and Cecil seemed satisfied by the answer. Cecil has arranged to buy a Barred Plymouth Rock cockerel from some big deal guy who will deliver the bird to Flemington on 10/11-12. Cecil asked me if I would mind picking up the bird for him. <sup>1923</sup> SRP: "I'll be glad to." Cecil then took me over to the man and said:

 "Here's a face I want you to remember.
 This young man will be picking up my Barred Rock cockerel in Flemington for me." The man — an arrogant son-of-abitch — nodded. The Grand Champion of the Show — a Quail Antwerp Bantam hen (possibly a pullet) was announced at noon and cooing out began immediately. I went over and congratulated the owner of the Grand Champion —
 the best bird out of the 976
 birds shown by the 86 exhibitors.
 Quite an honor to be sure. 1894

I have run into the well known APA <sup>9.</sup> Judge, Frank BORTNER, at several shows that he has judged and he has always been nice to me.

He showed at Augusta and when our paths crossed, he warmly extended his hand to me. We had a nice chat. Like George Schroeder, he is much much more urban than the average pony breeder / exhibitor / judge.

Returned to Eskdale by 3 P.M.
and went to an evening concert
by the Mutual Symphony with Cousin Peg & D.W.P. Charles Lutort conducted a very beautiful performance of Hinde-
mit's Symphonic Metamorphoses 1825 and Prokofiev's dazzlingly beautiful and exciting Romeo and Juliet - which has long been one of my favorite works.

 We were all the Salt Co's guests and afterwards there was a reception in the upper room of the Masni Temple: wine and cheese. There was much wine consumed all around and everyone was "well
 oiled" at the end of the evening.
 It was a grand evening and a great pleasure to be around professional musicians and to hear <sup>first-class</sup> a fine performance.
 Outas's conducting is very elegant and precise.

- 10/23 - Mom had a "T.I.A." and Dad took her to the hospital at 9 A.M.
- SRP mailed résumé to Lackawanna Historical Society for position of Executive Director.
  - prepared city Hall display for Mayor Moran for Wednesday's presentation.

- 10/24 - Mountain View: Danny Jones raises show dogs (Corn Hounds); he lives here in Eldale — asked about the Chickens and seemed very pleased to know that I raise them for exhibition purposes.
- Mom very "drugged up" & weak; appears terrible in late afternoon when DWP was at the Mid Valley Hospital; when I went down at mid-1827 evening she seemed quite herself

and we were all very relieved;

10/25— DWP & I were present at the presentation of $2,000+ Check to City of Carbondale by the County Commissioners — we represented the Historical Society.

DWP took photographs.
The city will match that amount
and have an architectural / engineering study done —
hopefully this step is the beginning of the complete restoration of the building.

None of this would have happened had it not been for the efforts of the Historical Society over the past 8 years.

- Halloween harassment began last night (10/31) — nails were propped up under my front tire during the night (I was in bed and heard a car pull in — pause — and then pull out at around 11 P.M.) — I'm sure it's Steve Duck & Peterka & probably Scott Obelenus. I did not discover the nail attached to a square 1" metal bar until I arrived at the Homestead at 9 A.M. to pick up DWP. I removed the nail & its metal bar and the tire started to go flat. I got into the car and made it to 11/29

C. R. Case before it went flat; the tires are insured and it was re-placed at no charge. Discovered tonight that the front right tire has a similar nail in it and it is not flat. Tomorrow
I will be at Mountain View
and I will speak to Buck/Peterson & Co. and ask them to leave me alone. After school
I will drive into Carbondale
and have the tire repaired.
This Halloween harassment
is extremely maddening.
When will these kids grow
up?

10/25/89 - My guess is that Mom will be discharged from the Mid-Valley Hospital on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

I just now, 9 P.M., phoned Cousin Peg and she said that Mom seemed very much herself tonight when Peg was there after work. Mom was very much herself when DWP, Dad & I were there at mid-day. Her blood pressure was taken when we were there and it was normal. All this is wonderful news.

10/26/89 - Mom much better. When DWP and I arrived at about 7 P.M. at the hospital, she was in her robe and sitting in the chair by the side of her bed. Her spirits were good and she looked perfectly normal. It seems very likely that she will come home tomorrow or possibly Saturday morning, which will be grand.
I took her two pieces of her own anisette toast from home - they were wrapped in a yellow paper napkin with an elastic around them. She was very pleased with the "treat" and un-wrapped it very carefully. I was very glad I took the simple gift.

Immediately after Mountain View,
 I drove directly to C.R. Case and had my right front tire repaired - I believe that the nail was placed under my <sup>right front</sup> tire on Tuesday night at the same time that the nail

 was put under the left front tire, although I didn't discover the right front nail until Wednesday night, after I had had the left front tire repaired. When will these little bastards grow up? When will they become interested in each other and stop harassing the neighbors?

10/28/89 - a beautiful show: over 1,000 birds

on exhibition and most of them first class birds.

York is quite a trek from Elders:

186 miles each

way, but the traveling is easy.

Left Elders at about 9 A.M. and returned a little

after 9 P.M. Very high quality birds on exhibition and more than a few breeds and varieties that I have never seen before: Duff Catalans, Miller Fleuve Leghorns, Crele old English Game standards, Blue Red O. E. S. standards, P. D. R. Phoenix standards, Orchen O. E. S. standards. There were some dogglingly beautiful birds

Shown: White Crested Blue Polish,
 Brown Leghorn, Buff Orpington
 (Wm. Bacon, Jr., P.O. Box 261, Carley, PA 17312), Brown Red O.E. Game, among the standards. A vast quantity of fantom O.E. game. Ray Y. Baker (312 W. Ferdinand St; Manheim, PA 17545) showed some Cuckoo Belgians
 (my pair are nicer). A mediocre Black Orpington standard was shown by Randy & Richard Stouback, P.O. Box 67, Oxford, PA 19363. My standard Jersey Giants are nicer than the ones that were shown today. Edward <sup>A.</sup> Price, (P.O. 2, Box 465, Catawissa, PA 17820 717-356-2197) was there and was selling Dürchen <sup>modern</sup> game bantams (I bought some

from him at the Bath show time (Fall) and also some standard
O.E. Bamer. I bought a B.B.R. cockerel for $15.00; he tried to sell me two Blue Res O.E. B. hens, but I resisted. He was very friendly today - much more so than at Bath. Tant miens. Dick & Thala Woldan were there today &
we visited, as we always do.
I'm very glad I went. It was a gorgeous autumn day. all was well at Eekdale upon my return.
The Cuckoo Belgian male and all the Brecken modern and the Jersey Giant Cockerel are all now in perfect health - and that's a relief.

10/30/89 - Substitute Day 17 - CAHS - Galeski. Very productive day:
counted and deposited the BDC money from 10/29; prepared for mailing the November 1989 Derean Newer; deposited on cash my October 1989
BDC paycheck; updated the 1989 FTA Honor Roll to include the data from the Fall IV Fly -
the Stock Fly. It always pleases me enormously to be able to get done so much personal work in the course of a day of substituting.
As such, one feels less raped
by the experience. The frequency of the substitute calls showed increase quite a bit now and continue to the end of the school year.

Mom should be discharged from the hospital today — she looked to be herself last night when Owp and I visited. We were all a bit rattled by the fact that Mom's hospital roommate died in the early hours of Sunday morning. She seemed like she was doing just fine. Quite a shock. It will be good to get Mom home and to return to normal.

I will also be glad when the Halloween season is over and the teenage vandalism stops: thus far I have had two flat tires, done probably by Scott Obelmer and Steve Duck & Co.

Executive Director

Wanted for local Historical Society. Please submit resume to: Personnel Director, 232 Monroe Ave., Scranton, Pa. 18510.

- Resumé & letter mailed 10/23/89
- 10/25/89 - Gail Reese was at the CHS when Dorothy Silva's resignation was announced and so told JVB that my name was mentioned as her successor. Tom Klapfer was at the CHS on today and he was also present when Dorothy announced her resignation & he also told JVB that my name was mentioned as Silva's successor. This, of course, is fabulous news. JVB seems to think that the salary for the position is in the mid 20's — which would be grand!
- 10/31/89 - Returned Jack Hiddlestone's phone call; he thinks that a new Executive Director will be named before the end of November.

Sat. Oct. 21

Dear Robert,

If I don't get this check off, we will be in another month and my confusion will increase.

We were glad to know that you got your things straightened out and that it was not our poor information that you did not get here. Things do have a way of tangling.

As things are now, we will be home the week of Nov. 14, but will have to let you know more definitely later.

It is such a struggle to write that I won't say more.

Sincerely

Edith and Gertrude.

Dear SRP:

I've tried calling you from time to time, with no success. Not at home? ~~or~~ Are you out gallivanting? as is your place of the work?

Life is exceptionally busy. Christine rarely has a spare moment. She is taking two courses towards her M.B.A. and an additional course on Freud at a psychoanalytic center. This evening she is away, on her second business trip within a month. This is a one-nighter, but next week she will be gone for three nights. Woe is me! (But I'll get a lot of work done.... This letter is proof to that.)

I am busy with my job, and am also taking a screenwriting course, which I am enjoying tremendously. I've been doing some other writing too, including the ridiculous cookbook that perhaps we talked about when we saw you, now renamed The Natural Gas Cookbook; too many people reacted negatively to the other title (The Farter's Cookbook), though I suspect that a good proportion of them, in the private hearts of hearts, found it amusing, but felt they would lose face if they admitted it. I will also soon begin work on a topic from the Jewish Holocaust. I have also written three short stories in recent weeks.

Recently I was not feeling well, so I went to a chiropractor-nutritionist-kinesiologist whom Christine has been seeing. This woman performed a lot of mumbo-jumbo, waving bottles over my body, touching various neural junctions with her hands and fingers, instructing me to hold my hand in one mudra or another, and eventually coming up with the diagnosis of yang. I was too yang. Consequently, she placed me on an extremely yin diet. Among other things, I cannot consume red meat or poultry, shellfish, wheat, corn (including corn oil), raspberries, strawberries, blueberries, tomatoes, white potatoes, eggplant, coffee, tea (!), sugar, honey, maple syrup, fructose. To the distress of the doctor's receptionist, I am allowed dairy, not having tested allergic to it, as I did to all these others, whose essences she waved over my body in tiny bottles. The receptionist is distressed because, without doubt, she and most of the patients she deals with have not tasted cheese in years.

Are you amused? I am, vastly. I am quite intrigued to learn that I am too yang. I find that it amuses me so much that I find the diet quite tolerable. In the month I've been doing it, I've lost about seven pounds and feel enormously better.

I hope this letter finds you spiffy and otherwise well, and the same for your family too. And the same for your feathered family.

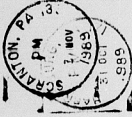

Heard from you soon?

10/31/89 - Halloween: 5:30 P.M. I wish it were tomorrow night at this time because the Halloween menace — attack by the neighbor's kids would be less. Two years ago I was bombarded with eggs (the building);
last year they threw rocks through two of the large front windows;
so far this Halloween season I have had two flat tires. What's next? I am hoping (possibly against hope) that they have had "their laugh" for this year
and they will leave me alone.
We shall see. I have decided to stay home all night just in case they decide they want to burn down my building
or something equally horrible.

10-31-89

6:50 P.M. — a little boy, dressed as Dracula, knocked on the door. He was driven here, I think, by Travis Mills on his 4-wheeler. He came right in, and opened a plaster bag for me to put something in. I reached for an apple and put it in & he was very satisfied and left.

I now have ready some more apples and small change in the event that any more kids come along Halloweening.

10:15 P.M. — pouring rain. "That will do it for tonight. all the kids and rowdies will go home

1952

When it is warm & dry" said I to myself. Not true. About 2 minutes later I heard a car slow down as it passed by and then "Wham Wham Wham" — the unmistakable sound of three eggs hitting the front of my building. I put on my rain gear and got a pail of sussy water and a broom and the ladder and went out and washed off the eggs — one of which hit my car. The egg mess cleaned up easily although one of the eggs hit fairly high up on 3.

the building and I had to carry a pail of water way up the ladder. How glad I was that it was only eggs and not rocks,
as it was last year.

No other Halloween disturbances took place, thank God. Let's hope that there are no more ever. It is horrible to be under attack in one's own house.

The egg throwers came in a car that came down the hill,
not surprisingly. The kids in question live up on the Trinker Road to be sure.

Essay

Lance Morrow

When the Earth Cracks Open

In the spring of 1872, the naturalist John Muir was asleep in a small cabin in the Yosemite Valley. "At half past two o'clock," he wrote later, "I was awakened by a tremendous earthquake ... the strange thrilling motion could not be mistaken, and I ran out of my cabin, both glad and frightened, shouting, 'A noble earthquake! A noble earthquake!' feeling sure I was going to learn something."

It would be delightful to think that he actually uttered those words, looking for sermons in the shaking stones. In any case, Muir was alone in the moonlit mountains, and so he could indulge his charming 19th century awe. When the earth turned in its sleep, it crushed much landscape in the folds, but somehow the event could keep its innocence. When nature does something awful, after all, is it part of the electrical display of God the Father, or merely geography rearranging itself, obeying an impersonal agenda?

When the earth cracks open to dismantle a city, then metaphysical questions come boiling up. What would Muir learn? What does the cataclysm have to teach? That the earth retains its genius for the wild surprise? Or that some profound principle of disorder and annihilating wrath has been set loose in the world?

Of all natural disasters, the earthquake somehow is the most unnerving. It is the earth talking, after all, and so it speaks with a primal power. Earthquakes in Scripture mean that God has crumpled up the order of the world and hurled it down in disgust. "And the foundations of the world do shake," says Isaiah. "The earth is utterly broken down." Or, agnostically, earthquakes are a wandering, enigmatic fierceness, now and then breaching the surface like Moby Dick.

An earthquake rides on a principle of disintegration—the disintegration not only of architecture and pavements and lives but also of the entire idea of order, of process and human control. "What can one believe quite safe," asked Seneca, "if the world itself is shaken, and its most solid parts totter to their fall ... and the earth lose its chief characteristic, stability?" The familiar world goes rioting down to rubble. Reality comes to rest at a crazy angle.

The terror lies first in the surprise. An earthquake is hidden from one moment to the next, as the future is hidden, as God is hidden. The event does not announce itself as most other disasters do, as a hurricane does, or a flood, or even an erupting volcano, which is after all hard to miss as dangerous geography. A plague too arrives more slowly.

That is no consolation, but at least the mind and nerves are prepared. The event proceeds in a logical continuum of developing bad news.

An earthquake is simply an unannounced convulsion. It is nature performing a Shakespearean tragedy that begins absurdly in the fifth act: after 15 seconds, Hamlet and the others lie dying, the stage is covered with blood and debris. For many years one may have lived on top of the San Andreas fault and made doomy jokes about it; it is like having a violent beast in the basement, knowing that one day it may burst up through the living-room floor. But there is no preparation for the moment. Only certain animals feel premonitory vibrations undetectable to humans. They grow skittish. Horses glare with a wild panicked eye.

Sometimes storms, even hurricanes, can be exhilarating. It is fun to stand on a beach during a histrionic blow. An earthquake is not that kind of thrill. The worst part may be the feeling of helplessness. There is no right thing to do just then, except perhaps to flee the building. There is no knowing where the earth will open next. The wild cracking follows no principle but the terrifyingly random. Denial ("this is not happening") competes with fascination.

A major earthquake lays waste the human sense of scale. When reporters write about earthquakes, they invariably say that cars and other large objects were "tossed around like toys."

Architecture collapses upon itself. The human idea of proportion is outraged in the rifting and shearing.

So certainties vanish. The earth liquefies. It becomes as wild as surf. The solid is abruptly fluid. Normally, earth is the refuge, the stability, the foundation of things. The earth should be alive only to grow vegetables and flowers. Now the earth itself becomes a beast, all teeth and gashes and sudden topplings. Reality has turned molten and violent.

Sometimes when the earth cracks open, it produces good stories. In March 1933, Albert Einstein was visiting the Long Beach campus of the University of California. He and his host from the department of geology walked through the campus, intently discussing the motions of earthquakes. Suddenly they looked up in puzzlement to see people running out of campus buildings. Einstein and the other scientist had been so busy discussing seismology that they did not notice the earthquake occurring under their feet.

There may be something perversely cathartic about earthquakes. For some time mankind has been in the business of manufacturing its own disasters—wars, acid rain and other pollutions, drugs, a globe aswarm with refugees. Perhaps it is a relief for a moment to be face to face with a disaster that man did not invent, a cataclysm that has at least a sort of innocence of origin in larger powers.

The survivors will proceed like Odysseus and his men, after one of their escapes: "And so we sailed on, aching in our hearts for the companions that we lost, but glad to be alive." ■

☐ November Skies

The month opens with a traveling show. During the first four days the moon parades by Antares, Venus, Uranus, Saturn, Neptune, and Vesta in that order. The new moon will be riding low in the southern portion of the heavens at 27 degrees south on November 2. But it will be a sliver by the fourth, about an eighth of full size. The moon, which becomes full on the thirteenth, is usually designated the Beaver Moon.

→ This is not a good month for planet watchers. Venus at bright -4.5 magnitude is an evening object low in the southwest for about two hours after sundown. Jupiter at -2.7 is the all-night sentinel, rising about sundown and setting about sunrise. Mars is close to the sun most of the month and rather weak. Saturn at a modest +0.6 may be found with difficulty low in the southwest for two hours after sunset. Mercury is not visible this month until the last days because it is in conjunction with the sun and hiding behind it.

Even the most dependable spectacle of November, the Leonid meteor shower right after midnight, will be spoiled by the gibbous moon. The best time to see it might be toward dawn.

☐ December Skies

→ Earliest sunset (December 7); shortest day (December 21); latest sunrise (January 4)—that is the sequence to remember at the turn of the solar year. December 7 seems the shortest day because most of us are aware of its early sunset but are not sky-conscious at the time of the late sunrise in early January. With the sun at 40 degrees latitude, the shortest day from sunrise to sunset lasts only nine hours and 20 minutes.

The main feature of the holiday skies this month is the presence of three planets shining close to their brightest. Venus at -4.7 magnitude reaches its greatest power on the fourteenth. It is then 39 degrees from the sun and its disk presents a maximum angular surface to reflect the solar rays. It is so bright that at noon on a clear day it can be seen with the unaided eye, southeast of the sun. At sunset, those with keen eyesight may be able to see the outline of its outer rim as we do that of the moon when it is in its crescent phase.

Jupiter rising near sundown is visible all night. It shines at -2.7 magnitude and reaches opposition to the sun on December 27.

Mercury also joins the show, shining in the southwest sky at sundown. It stands 14 degrees above the horizon on December 23 near magnitude -0.5.

The full moon this month on December 12 is called the Cold Moon, Moon before Yule, or the Long Night Moon. It takes a high trajectory across the sky, lighting the darkness considerably. It is especially welcome beyond the Arctic Circle where it provides a valuable travelers' aid in the constant darkness.

→ I have seen the outer rim on occasion.

→ No march toward Spring will begin on 12/2/89 & it will get into high gear on 1/4/90

City, county give final approval for $4,500 study of city hall

By Matt Reauy
Officials from Lackawanna County and Carbondale met last week to formally approve an architectural study of city hall and possibly pave the way for a major renovation project.

County commissioners Joseph Corcoran and Ray Alberigi hand delivered a check for $2,250 to Mayor John Moran Wednesday to cover their part of the study.

Carbondale council has already agreed to match that sum and permit engineers from Groenendaal & Jones of Petersburg, PA to begin their architectural study of city hall.

Moran indicated that he hopes the study will be the first step in what could turn out to be a $1.5 to $2 million renovation of city hall.

The city's aging municipal building is in drastic need of repair, from the leaks in its roof down to its often flooded basement.

"It needs a lot of work," Moran admitted. "Everybody can see that."

How much work?

Exactly how much work the building does need will be revealed over the course of the next two or three months as the city's architectural contractor goes over the entire building.

"We're going to start right away," explained Denson Groenendaal as he began to unpack his architectural camera. "The first thing we have to do is begin recording and measuring. We'll also do photographic elevations."

The initial phase of the study will involve documentation, but Groenendaal noted that the company will have to make several visits to the site.

"The existing conditions evaluation is quite extensive," he observed. "We have to come up with a preliminary plan, the primary purpose of which will be (renovation) feasibility."

Once the study is completed and the city has some cost figures in hand, Moran and several city councilmen will attempt to raise the funding necessary to do the job.

"We are going to have to try to raise some funds locally," said Moran. "Then we'll have to take the money we raise as a sign of our commitment and go to Harrisburg for some help."

Back to the future

The mayor noted that he hopes to renovate city hall to the extent that it looks "as good as it did in 1900."

That type of sentiment sits well with members of the Carbondale Historical Society who have given the plan their full backing and even prepared a packet for the October 25 meeting which detailed some of the building's history.

According to the study, which was completed by S. Robert Powell, Carbondale's first city hall was built 1852 at the site of the present building. It was a wooden building in the Greek Revival style constructed at a cost of $3,000.

But after fire destroyed the building in 1859, Mayor John M. Poore erected a two story brick city hall at the same location. That structure served as the municipal building until the present city hall was constructed in 1892-93.

The architect's design for the new city hall called for addition of a third story to the 1859 building. But, after construction was begun in 1893, council ran out of money for the project and it had to be stopped. The partially built story can still be seen beneath the roof of city hall's two story wing.

In fact, the two story wing is actually the "old city hall. Although council at the time did not have enough money to add on to the old building, construction of a new three story wing was already completed. In 1894, that wing and its clock tower were connected to the old city hall, forming the building which exists today.

Welcoming the dark time Happy New Year!

Happy New Year! marks the beginning of winter, the dark time — and the beginning of the Celtic New Year — the most important feast in the Celtic year.

In Welsh, it's called Calan Gaeaf, or First Day of Winter. To the ancients, the year begins with winter, the dark half of the year. It is a time of communication between this world and the Otherworld. A bonfire, once served as the centerpiece for New Year festivities. All household fires were extinguished, then relit from this central fire, blessed by the Druids. And in the earliest days, animals were sacrificed to ensure that the fertility would not vanish during winter.

FORGET THE BONFIRE and sacrifices — you can still celebrate in fine Celtic fashion. Some tips from the Celtic League follow.

It's not practical to have a bonfire if your party is indoors, so light the large candle plus six smaller ones to represent the six modern Celtic nations: Wales, Scotland, Ireland, Brittany, Cornwall and Manx.

Traditional New Year foods include apples, hazelnuts, turnips, and cheeses of the Celtic nations. (Irish, Scottish and Welsh liquid refreshments also may be deemed appropriate.) The feast should be in the Celtic spirit, expressing traditions related to the feast. Live musicians and singers are best, but recordings of Celtic artists will do nicely. Harp music and bagpipe music are especially fitting for the occasion.

ARRIVAL of the New Year is based not on the clock striking midnight, but on the feeling that it is time to bring in the New Year. To start the celebration, light the large candle, gather 'round in a circle, then light the six smaller candles, to stimulate the 'rekindling of household fires.' Be a moment of hope, and for the spirits of one's ancestors, too. Remember, they may return on this night!

(Not all Otherworld visitors are welcome. Many ancient rituals provided hospitality — food, for example — for dead ancestors. But witches also are at work in this time; jack-o'-lanterns to simulate spirit guardians, and were placed at doors of homes to keep away unwelcome spirits.)

THE CELTIC LEAGUE suggests joining hands in a circle to sing "Auld Lang Syne." Surely a Welsh song would be even better. After a chorus or two, cross hands. Your chest and arm grasp the hand of the people next to you, says the League. You sing, close the circle towards the central candle, moving back and forth, opening and closing the circle, faster and faster until you've had enough.

It is now time to cap the occasion with an age-old Celtic custom of kissing. Happy New Year!

The 6 modern celtic nations:

1. Wales
2. Scotland
3. Ireland
4. Brittany
5. Cornwall
6. Manx

FLYING TIPPLER ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA
on the ten F.T.A. flies for 1989, Zone I.

Please note that all Official System fly times are given before all Honor System fly times. Please note, in addition, that ALL times reported to the Central Timer are given in this list, including those times that have been disqualified. Disqualified times are here reported because it is important to know how all competing kits performed in a given fly, even if those kits have been disqualified. Disqualified times, of course, earn the flyers in question zero for a time. Disqualified times, in addition, are not included in the Honor Rolls.

You will be interested to know that 11 F.T.A. members (Basic, Kelly, Kobulsky, Kvidera, Lukez, Mead, Ogozalek, O'Rourke, Powell, Zamanian, Zovich) entered a total of 53 of the flies for 1989, Zone I. (If all of those flyers had entered the ten Zone I flies there would have been a total of 110 flies entered.) Those 11 flyers paid a total of $82.56 in entry fees and those funds have all been forwarded by the Central Timer to Felix Khan for deposit.

After the 10 flies for Zone I, nine new fly times, all Official System, have been added to the 1989 F.T.A. Honor Rolls:

Spring II	John Mead	15:08
Summer I	Smail Basic	15:08
Summer II	Milan Kobulsky	15:39
Fall II	Al Lukez	12:19
Fall III	Milan Kobulsky	11:47
Fall IV	Milan Kobulsky	11:34

Our congratulations to those flyers on their achievements. Milan Kobulsky's time (11:34) for the Fall IV fly (the Stock Fly) is a new F.T.A. record for that fly.

No new fly times, Honor System, have been added to the 1989 Honor Rolls after the 10 flies for Zone I, 1989.

The Central Timer has received 36 fly reports for the 10 flies in Zone I this year: 14 Spring Series (11 Official System, 3 Honor System), 12 Summer Series (6 Official System, 6 Honor System), and 10 Fall Series (7 Official System, 3 Honor System). Nine of those 36 fly times have been disqualified: Spring Series (4 Official System, 0 Honor System), Summer Series (1 Official System, 2 Honor System), Fall Series (1 Official System, 1 Honor System).

1989 Honor Rolls

Compiled by S. Robert Powell, Central Timer

The Honor Rolls are a compilation of the 10 best times flown in each of the 10 annual F.T.A. competition flys for which we have available records (from 1965 on). The Honor Rolls were initially compiled by Omer Ogren and published in The Pigeon Review, May 1983 "Tippler Special," pp. 58-59 ("STATS N' STUFF"). These Honor Rolls were updated in 1986 and 1987 by S. Robert Powell who, now Central Timer of the F.T.A., has updated these rolls for 1988 and 1989.

In four instances in these Honor Rolls for 1989 there is a double entry given under a particular time in a specific fly. This is because: (1) two different flyers reported the same time in a given fly in the same year, (2) two different flyers reported the same time in a given fly in two different years, or (3) the same flyer reported the same time in a given fly in two different years.

a large percentage of the over 100,000 people who passed through the poultry building throughout the week.

Next year's annual fair of the Harford Agricultural Society and its poultry show will take place August 20-25, 1990. For information on this show, contact the Poultry Superintendent: Cecil E. Rose, R.D. 1, Box 79 A-1, Montrose, PA 18801.

11/2/89 - Talent Search 89!

Wonderful evening. Adolescent energy in high gear. Formalized life. Very exhilarating. My 5th (?) year as a judge. The quality of the acts was very good this year — better than ever. The winners are marked on the accompanying sheet: Joan Moran is very talented and professional in her performance; I absolutely loved Jerry Manauant's performance. We all did. Sue Moran gave a lovely performance of Mozart's "Rondo alla Turca." Lisa Mahaski's performance of "Für Elise" was charming but not of the highest quality. She, and Boote Ross, will get much better as they go along, as will David Starger and Dekey Wasserman. Damian Shick & Co. were funny, very funny and I loved their act. Damian is a very engaging little mouse.

The judges were introduced separately and made separate entrances. "Our second judge is Mr. S. Robert Powell, a substitute teacher here at the school and the President of the Carbondale Historical Society." SRP was given a very noisy and friendly ovation — much more so than either Mrs. Doolin or Mrs. Mezza. Very gratifying.

It seemed odd not having Marie Hambeck as a judge this year. She is out of town now.

11/6/89 - Ran into Faith STRANAD at the Post office today. She attended Clinton Center Pioneer Day celebrations in the past. a nice lady. She asked me who she should vote for in the Clinton Township election. I told her that I didn't know much about the candidates and recommended that she discuss the matter with John Rude. She thanked me and said that that was sound advice — She knows John Rude and was pleased to hear me recommend him.

Mrs. Stranad is very urbane and charming and spoke highly of SRP & OWP and their efforts on behalf of Clinton Township. at one point in our chat she said:
"It's something you have to take seriously but you can't worry about it until the time comes, otherwise you can drive yourself crazy with worry." I can't remember what the antecedent of her "it" was, but I do know that her remark was very helpful to me at the time because I was very distressed and full of worry over the possible lawsuit that the Puttick / Bateman family may bring against Maplewood Cemetery. After my chat with Mrs. Starnes I immediately began to put into perspective the possible Maplewood lawsuits. Cross the bridge when you get to it - that's the lesson I re-learned today.

HLRP: "Pop used to talk about Andrew Cook."

Andrew Cooks mark 77th wedding jubilee

This is an eventful time for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cook of Lenoxville. The couple celebrated their 77th wedding anniversary on Sept. 11, and Maude Cook observed her 100th birthday on Oct. 29. Her husband was 98 years old on July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook were married on Sept. 11, 1912, at the Methodist Church Parsonage, Clifford, by Rev. Tuttle. At that time, Maude was the church organist.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cook have roots in Susquehanna County. Maude's great-grandfather, Elder William Wells, came to Clifford and settled in 1834.

Andrew Cooks wed 77 years

Andrew's great-grandparents were early settlers in Lenoxville.

Shortly after their marriage, Andrew Cook was employed as a teamster for Carbondale Milling Company for several years. He later operated the West Clifford, Lenoxville and Amza skimming stations, where farmers brought their milk to be separated, selling the cream and taking the skim milk back home to feed calves or pigs.

The couple purchased a farm near West Clifford, where they operated a dairy farm with guernsey cattle for 41 years. During this time, Mr. Cook served as Clifford Township road supervisor for 17 years. Upon retirement, the couple purchased the Bert Clarkson home and blacksmith shop in Lenoxville, where they have lived for the past 28 years.

During their lifetimes, they have seen remarkable changes take place. From the horse and buggy days, they progressed to a Model T car and truck, then a Model A, then other Ford products, with the exception of their 1938 Buick.

They recall the thrill of having electricity put into their home, and turning the light switch for the first time. They saw mud roads turn into paved highways and then the coming of the interstates. They have lived through the administrations of 18 presidents, from Grover Cleveland through George Bush. They have lived through man's first attempts at airline flight and marveled at man going to the moon.

Maude recently had a checkup by her doctor, who pronounced her not only his oldest patient, but "one of the healthiest." Her sight and hearing are not good, and she can no longer do the crossword puzzles she enjoyed, but otherwise she is well and her mind is keen, as is her husband's. Andrew reads the daily newspapers and large print Reader's Digest, and watches television. They both walk with the aid of a walker and enjoy having their family and friends call on them.

They have two children: Walter Cook, Binghamton, N.Y., and Mrs. Michael (Faye) Marcho, Gibson. They also have six grandchildren, including Susquehanna County Commissioner Gary Marcho, and eight great-grandchildren.

11/9/89 - Heritage Park meeting - 222
Mulberry Street, 7 P.M.

"Everyone" was there: former PA Governor
Scranton, Ben Oann, Dorothy Silva,
Paul Browne, <sup>Kenneth M. Brown</sup>, Anna Cummings, Gail Rees. The planning process continues. The Park will very probably have three "thrusts":

1. Cultural attractions
2. Reclamation
3. Parklands.

"turn straw
into gold;" protect and re-use our industrial remains

the environmental setting

in three primary
centers

at each of these centers are primary
themes

{ 1. Scranton
2. Oliphant
3. Carbondale

will be presented. No focus at Carbondale will be

"The Land - the natural environment
& the manmade
landscape" 1886

Garden

- In Debbie's slide show overview, three of the 12 or so slides were
of Carbondale:

1. City Hall & the Lackawanna River
2. Morse Homestead
3. breaker in the P&H Yard

The Park Service sees the area as follows:

A. The Land

- natural environment
- manmade landscape

B. The People - "the history of hard work"

- Ethnic Heritage
- Urban Settlement

C. Industry

- coal
- manufacturing
- transportation

- the Lackawanna Valley is "a glacial valley"
- the aboriginal forests were done away with in the 19th century

The meeting had a very very important aura to it and that was very exhilarating; during the "What do you think?" session, SRP spoke up remarks that tourists will come to our Heritage Park because of our "Cultural attractions" & our "Reclamations" and not because of our "Parklands," even though the Cultural attractions and reclamations will be united/fused by the parklands that are created, largely by the 1888 River area and mountains.

Robert -

I apologize for going off in a snit last night.

The problem was mine, not yours, and had to do with "giving" and "receiving".

Essentially what I saw going on was this :

I was trying to hand you the separate items in the folder and at the end I felt that I was standing there trying to hand you one of the items and you were not receiving it, i.e., you were sitting there looking at me and not responding to my gesture.

How many times in the past years have I gone into the living room with the best intention of giving to WSP or HLRP something to look at or read and found myself standing there with them ( especially WSP ) just sitting there and looking at me.

Perhaps it a problem of perception on their part. Perhaps on such an occasion they do not see that I am trying to give them something. Surely they do not see their reaction to my action from my point of view -- rejection, lack of interest in me, etc. etc. etc.

When I thought you were sitting there not receiving the items I was trying to give to you as fast as I was trying to give them to you, I was sure I was seeing another enactment of the all-too-familiar HLRP-WSP game of "not being able to receive".

I could walk off in a snit from you and get away with it because ultimately I would be able to explain to you what was going on and you would understand; to walk out of the living room in the same situation would only cause another problem on top of the more fundamental problem.

11/10/89 - Who will offer me a job?

Four applications pending:

1. Program Director
Voluntary Action Center applied 9/27
2. Director of alumni Relations and Annual Fund " 9/25
Keystone Junior College
3. Executive Director - Salary $16,000
Lackawanna Historical Society 10/23
4. Executive Director
Community Arts Project 11/10

Any one of the 4 of them would probably be fine. Given the words such as it is, I shall have to accept the first offer (within reason) that comes my way.

By Diane Ackerman

DAME EDITH SITWELL used to lie in an open coffin for a while before she began her day's writing. When I mentioned this macabre bit of gothic behavior to her in 1979, she told me only someone had thought to shut it. Picture Dame Edith, rehearsing the posture of the grave as a prelude to the side shows on paper she liked to stage. The straight and narrow was never her style. Only her much-ridiculed nose was rigid, though she managed to keep it entertainingly out of joint for most of her life. What was it exactly about that dim, contained solitude that spurred her creativity? Was it the idea of the coffin or the feet, smell, foul air of it that made creativity possible?

Diane Ackerman's most recent book is "On Extended Wings," a memoir.

Sitwell's coffin trick may sound like a prank, unlikely to attract the attention of writers courting their muses. What a strange lot writers are, we who live in mental barns where any roustabout idea may turn to honest labor. If only it gets the right incentive—a bit of drink, a light flogging, a delicate seduction. Artists are notorious for stammering, for being nervous, and they have sometimes used remarkable tricks.

For example, the poet Schiller used to keep rotten apples under the lid of his desk and inhale their pungent bouquet when he needed to find the right word. Then he would close the drawer, but the fragrance remained in his head. In 1985 researchers at Yale University found that the smell of spiced apple has a powerful elevating effect on people and can even save off a panic attack. Schiller sensed this all along. Something in the sweet, rancid musk—

ness of those apples jolted his brain into activity.

Amy Lowell, like George Sand, liked to smoke cigars while writing, and went so far in 1915 as to buy 10,000 of her favorite Manila stogies to make sure she could keep her creative fires kindled. It was Lowell who said she used to "drop" ideas into her subconscious, "much as one drops a letter into the mail-box. Six months later, the words of the poem began to come into my head. . . . The words seem to be pronounced in my head, but with nobody speaking them." Then they took shape in a cloud of smoke. Balzac drank more than 50 cups of coffee a day, and actually died from caffeine poisoning, although colossal amounts of caffeine don't seem to have bothered W. H. Auden or Dr. Johnson, who was reported to have drunk 25 cups of tea at one sitting. Victor Hugo, Benjamin Franklin and many others felt that they did their best work if they wrote while they were nude. D. H. Lawrence once even confessed that he liked to climb naked up mulberry trees, a fetish of long limbs and rough bark that stimulated his thoughts.

C OLETTE used to begin her day's writing by first picking fleas from her cat, and it's not hard to imagine how the methodical stroking and probing into fur might have focused such a voluptuary's mind. After all, this was a woman who could never travel light, but insisted on taking a hamper of such essentials as chocolate, cheese, meats, flowers and a baguette whenever she made even brief sorties. Hart Crane craved boisterous parties, in the middle of which he would disappear, rush to a typewriter, put on a record of a Cuban rumba, then Ravel's "Boléro," then a torch song, after which he would return, "his face brick-red, his eyes burning, his already iron-gray hair straight up from his skull. He would be chewing a five-cent cigar which he had forgotten to light. In his hands would be two or three sheets of typewritten manuscript. . . . 'Read that,' he would say, 'isn't that the greatest poem ever written!'" This is Malaprop's account, and Lowry goes on to offer even more examples of how Crane reminded him of "another friend, a famous killer of woodchucks," when the writer "tried to charm" his inspiration out of its hiding place by drinking and laughing and playing the phonograph.

Stendhal read two or three pages of the French civil code every morning before working on "The Charterhouse of Parma" — "in order," he said, "to acquire the correct tone." While Cather read the Bible. Alexandre Dumas père wrote his nonfiction on rose-colored paper, his fiction on blue and his poetry on yellow. He was nothing if not orderly, and to cure his insomnia and regularize his habits he went so far as to eat an apple at 7 each morning under the Arc de Triomphe. Kipling demanded the blackest ink he could find and fantasized about keeping "an ink-boy to grind me Indian ink," as if the sheer weight of the blackness would make his words as indelible as his memories.

Alfred de Musset, George Sand's lover, confided that it piqued him when she went directly from love-making to her writing desk, as she often did. But surely that was not so direct as Voltaire's actually using his lover's naked back as a writing desk. Robert Louis Stevenson, Mark Twain and Truman Capote all used to lie down when they wrote, with Capote going so far as to declare himself "a completely horizontal writer." Writing students often hear that Hemingway wrote standing up, but not that he obsessively sharpened pencils first, and, in any case, he wasn't standing up out of some sense of himself as the sentinel of tough, ramrod prose, but because he had hurt his back in a plane crash. Poe supposedly wrote with his Siamese cat sitting on his shoulder. Thomas Wolfe, Virginia Woolf and Lewis Carroll were all standers; and Robert Hendrickson reports in "The Literary Life and Other Curiosities" that Aldous Huxley "often wrote with his nose." In "The Art of Seeing," Huxley says that "a little nose writing will result in a perceptible temporary improvement of defective vision."

Many nonpedestrian writers have got their inspiration from walking. Especially poets — there's a sonneteer in our chests; we walk around to the beat of lambs. Wordsworth, of course, and John Clare, who used to go out looking for the horizon and one day in insanity thought he found it, and A. E. Housman, who, when asked to define poetry, had the good sense to say: "I could no more define poetry than a terrier can a rat, but I thought we both recognized the object by the symptoms which it provokes in us. . . . If I were obliged . . . to name the class of things to which it belongs, I should call it a secretion." After drinking a pint of beer at lunch, he would go out for a two- or three-mile walk and then gently secrete.

I guess the goal of all these measures is concentration, that petrified mirage, and few people have written about it as eloquently as Stephen Spender did in his essay "The Making of a Poem": "There is always a slight tendency of the body to sabotage the attention of the mind by providing some distraction. If this need for distraction can be directed into one channel — such as the odor of rotten apples or the taste of tobacco or tea — then the other distractions outside oneself are put out of the competition. Another possible explanation is that the concentrated effort of writing poetry is a spiritual activity which makes one completely forget, for the time being, that one has a body. It is a disturbance of the balance of the body and mind and for this reason one needs a kind of anchor of sensation with the physical world."

This explains, in part, why Benjamin Franklin, Edmond Rostand and others wrote while soaking in a bathtub. In fact, Franklin brought the first bathtub to

when he had a cold. The rustling of his head shattered
the usual logical links

the United States in the 1780's, and he loved a good, long, thoughtful submersion. In water and ideas, I mean. Ancient Romans found it therapeutic to bathe in asses' milk or even in crushed strawberries. I have a pine plank that I lay across the sides of the tub so that I can stay in a bubble bath for hours and write. In the bath, water displaces much of your weight, and you feel light. When the water temperature and the body temperature converge, my mind lifts free and travels by itself. One summer, lolling in baths, I wrote an entire verse play, which mainly consisted of dramatic monologues spoken by the 17th-century Mexican poet Sor Juana de la Cruz; her lover, an Italian courtier; and various players in her tumultuous life. I wanted to slide off the centuries as if from a hill of shale. Baths were perfect.

The Romantics, of course, were fond of opium, and Coleridge freely admitted to indulging in two grains of it before working. The list of writers triggered by inspirational highs by alcohol would occupy a small, damp book. T. S. Eliot's tonic was viral — he preferred writing when he had a head cold. The rustling of his head, as if full of petticoats, shattered the usual logical links between things and allowed his mind to roam.

MANY writers I know become fixated on a single piece of music when they are writing a book and listen to it perhaps a thousand times over the course of a year. While he was writing the novel "The Place in Flowers Where Pollen Rests," Paul West listened nonstop to one especially melodic sonatina by Ferruccio Busoni. He had no idea why. John Ashbery first takes a walk, then brews himself a cup of French blend Indar tea, then listens to something post-Romantic ("The chamber music of Franz Schmidt has been beneficial," he told me). Some writers become obsessed with cheap and tawdry country-and-western songs, others with one special prelude or tone poem. I think the music they choose creates a mental frame around the essence of the book. Every time the music plays, it recreates the emotional state the writer knows the book to live in. A scan of brain waves would probably show the fetishistic listener to be in the identical state of alert calm each time he hears the music.

When I asked a few friends about their writing habits, I thought for sure they'd make up something offbeat — standing in a ditch and whistling Blake's "Jerusalem," for instance; or playing the call to colors at Santa Anita while stroking the freckled bell of a foxglove. But most swore they had none — no habits, no superstitions, no special routines. I telephoned William Gass and pressed him a little.

"You have no unusual work habits?" I asked, in as level a tone as I could muster. We had been colleagues for three years at Washington University, and I knew his quiet professorial patina concealed a truly exotic mental grain.

"No, sorry to be so boring," he sighed. I could hear him settling comfortably on the steps in the pantry. And, as his mind is like an overflowing pantry, that seemed only right.

"How does your day begin?"

"Oh, I go out and photograph for a couple of hours," he said.

"What do you photograph?"

"The rusty, derelict, overlooked, downtrodden parts of the city. Filth and decay mainly," he said in a nothing-much-to-it tone of voice, as casually dismissive as the wave of a hand.

"You do this every day, photograph filth and decay?"

"Most days."

"And then you write?"

"Yes."

"And you don't think this is unusual?"

"Not for me."

A quiet, distinguished scientist, who has published two charming books of essays about the world and how it works, told me that his secret inspiration was "violent sex." I didn't inquire further, but noted that he looked thin. The poets May Swenson and Howard Nemerov like to sit for a short spell each day and copy down whatever pours through their heads from "the Great Dictator," as Mr. Nemerov labels it, then plough through to see what gems may lie hidden in the rock. Amy Clampitt, another poet, told me that she searches out a window to perch behind, whether it be in the city or on a train or by the seaside. Something about the petridish effect of the glass clarifies her thoughts. The novelist Mary Lee Settle tumbles out of bed and heads straight for her typewriter, before the dream state disappears. Alphonso Lingis — whose unusual books "Excesses" and "Libido" consider the realms of human sensuality and kinkiness — travels the world sampling its exotic erotica. Often he primes the pump by writing letters to friends. I possess some extraordinary letters, half poetry, half anthropology, which he sent to me from a Thailand jail (where he took time out from removing vermin to write), a convent in Ecuador, Africa (where he was scuba diving along the coast) and Bali (where he was taking part in fertility rituals).

SUCH feats of self-rousing are hard to explain to one's parents, who would like to believe that their child does something reasonably normal and hangs out with reasonably normal folk, not people who sniff rotten apples and write in the nude. Best not to tell them how the painter J. M. W. Turner liked to be lashed to the mast of a ship and taken sailing during a real hell-for-leather toad-strangler of a storm so that he could be right in the middle of the tumult.

There are many roads to Rome, as the old maxim goes, and some of them are sinewy and full of fungus and rocks, while others are paved and dull. I think I'll tell my parents that I stare at bouquets of roses before I work. Or that I stare at them until butterflies appear. The truth is that, besides opening and closing mental drawers (which I actually picture in my mind), writing in the bath, beginning each summer day by choosing and arranging flowers for a Zenlike hour or so, listening obsessively to music (Alessandro Marcello's oboe concerto in D minor, its adagio, is what's nourishing my senses right now), I go speed walking for an hour every single day. Half of the oxygen in the state of New York has passed through my lungs at one time or another. I don't know whether this helps or not. My muse is male, has the radiant silvery complexion of the moon and never speaks to me directly. I suspect he's too busy catching his breath. □

THE CRYSTAL BAND

P.O. BOX 1692, SCRANTON, PENNSYLVANIA 18501-1692

November 12, 1989

Dear Friend and Member of the Crystal Band:

One of my favorite holiday songs begins with the line "Let's keep Christmas the whole year through." And I think, perhaps, that is what The Crystal Band does throughout the year, but especially at the Christmas season. This is a very special time for us to not only present beautiful holiday music to the community, but to share our Christmas spirit and give an outpouring of love to our audiences.

Again this year we will be sharing our gift of love and music to many people in Scranton and the surrounding communities, some of whom have never before heard the Crystal Band perform. And it is with pleasure that we present our special holiday music for them.

This is a list of the concerts that have been arranged for the Christmas concert season:

1. Sunday, December 3 - Trinity Baptist Church, Scranton - 7:00 p.m.
2. Sunday, December 10 - Abington Manor, Clarks Green - 2:00 p.m.
3. Monday, December 11 - Lutherwood, Scranton - 7:30 p.m.
4. Sunday, December 17 - Berean Baptist Church, Carbondale - 7:00 p.m.

Rehearsals will continue through the month of November with the last rehearsal being scheduled for Monday, November 27. Rehearsal will be held on Monday, December 4, only if needed. It is our sincere hope that everyone will make a special effort to attend all these rehearsals so that we can present quality performances for the Christmas season. Rehearsals will resume again on Monday, January 8, 1990, at which time preparation will begin for the spring concert in April.

The calling system to inform our members of rehearsal and/or concert cancellations in case of inclement weather will be re-established for the current year. If for some reason you have not been contacted and have cause to believe that there may be a cancellation, please feel free to call either Larry at 842-8053 or 342-6155; or Karin at 347-6154.

At this time may I thank each and every member of the band for their dedication and hard work. It is indeed my privilege to serve such a special, talented and dedicated group of musicians.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, the officers, my family and myself, may I extend to each member of the band and their families a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year. God bless you all!

Sincerely,

Karin Kreinberg

Dear Dr. Powell:

The Christmas season is rapidly approaching and it is time once again to turn our attention to the Crystal Band Christmas concerts. I'm not sure if Howard has spoken to you as yet about serving as our Master of Ceremonies for the concerts, but if he has not, let me be the one to cordially invite you to act in that capacity and add your special "magic" to our concerts. It is always our privilege to have you with us and we sincerely thank you for always being so generous in sharing yourself with us.

I am sending you a copy of the letter that was given to the band so that you will know when the concerts have been scheduled. Our band has once again increased in size and we now number almost 60 members, over half of them being musicians from the local high schools. They are tremendous musicians and it has been exciting since September to see them form into probably the best band in years.

Once again, thank you for being part of our Crystal Band "family". We truly do appreciate your enthusiasm and support. I look forward to seeing you at the concerts.

May I also wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year. God bless you all.

Sincerely,

11-13-89 - Blue Ridge H.S.; late call but I made it here by 8:20 A.M. - Coquiest tout à fait extraordinaire.

- Kept the "Heat Machine Plus" on at 50°F in the henhouse all last night; this morning it was about 20°F outside but very comfortable à l'intérieur of the H.H. Wonderful. I don't like worrying about frozen combs and water dishes and the "Heat Machine" may just be the answer. Such machines are reported to be extremely economical to run. At this point, I will not trouble myself with worrying about utility bills. My precious birds will be "comfortable" 1914 and that's that. During the day the sun will stream through the H.H. windows and warm the building nicely - even on the coldest days.

— Fred A. Brusco
119 Cedarhurst avenue
West Paterson, NJ 07424 } He sought me out
at the Garden

State show and wanted to know where I got my Partridge Rock Pullet. I told him: Halback's.
That was on Saturday. On Sunday, 10/12/89, he sought me out and asked if I would be interested in trading him my pullet
for one of his pullets - one
that he had in his truck. 1915

I looked over the birds he wanted to trade & selected one and made the trade. Bruce is a long time breeder of Partridge Rocks and wanted to get my pullet because he needs new blood in his line. The bird that I selected from his pullets is better than the one I gave him — I hope. The laying on mine is not as good as it could be but she is a good bird. She will make a good breeder but is not the best of show birds. The pullet that I got from Bruce is a good show bird. He has

to be very careful in such "deals" because there are many unscrupulous breeders "out there";
I am well pleased with the trade and am glad to have the second blood line for my P. R.
stock. Given Busco's Keen interest in my bird, I naturally was very careful. My first thought was, of course, that my pullet (a little young yet to show but nice) must be a fabulous bird since Busco is so interested. But I am convinced that even though she is a good bird (not fabulous) it is because Busco needs new blood and not because he was trying to pull me over me and trick me into trading a potential Champion. When I returned from Flemington <sup>on 11/12</sup> I delivered a White Rosecomb Bantam cock to Cecil Nore (from Barney Volak) and Cecil spoke highly of Jusco, all of which re-confirmed my position that he is a good guy.

— Garden State Show - 10/11-12/89

- Flemington is 111 miles from Elkdale; an easy trip that can be done in about 2½ hours; I drove down and back on Saturday and Sunday 1988

On Saturday I got up at about 4 A.M.<sup>6.</sup> and packed up the birds and left by 5 A.M. Arrived at Flemington about 7:30 A.M. I could have left at 6 A.M. but wasn't sure of the travel time &
wanted to be there on time.
Cooped in and sat down to drink a cup a coffee and then was asked by the B.S.P.
management if I would be interested in "Clerking" for one of the judges. "I'd be happy to Clerk for George Schroeder," said I, and spent about 6 hours so doing. Very informative and interesting. I love to 1919

7.

Clerk. One is thrust into a fairly substantial line-light: all eyes are on the judge and so the clerk necessarily basks in the same glow/aura. Deplorable, it gives one something specific and concrete to do. After cooperating in and visiting with the other exhibitors there is frequently a lull in the activity. As a Clerk, one is very busy all day and one learns and one basks in the judge's aura of importance. Very pleasant.

George Schroeder judged the feather-legged bantams and was very expansive and has a very good theatrical

Sence. He insisted on buying me lunch in the Poultry Building—
again - SRP (a very minor
circle of poultry breeders) is thrust into the limelight by dining with the judges and show officials.

on Saturday and returned to Elkdale and looked after the birds at home; ate and re-grouped and went to bed
and then got up on Sunday at 7 A.M. and returned to Flemington.

Sunday morning is very 1921

interesting and exciting at 2-day shows: the judges' final decisions are made, the Chinese auctions, the 50/50 raffle, live-bird auctions, announcements of winners — and all of the exhibitors are present. Some nice birds were auctioned off at good prices but I exercised great restraint and did not buy any. By 1:30 P.M. I was packed up and on my way back to Elkdale — with my birds + a White Rosecomb Cock for Cecil Rose.

Returned to Elkdale and fed and watered my birds and then drove up to Montrose to drop off the Roosevelt for Cecil; when I arrived there, Bruce Dumont (Fulton, NY) and a lady friend of his were there: picking up 3 pair of Sebrights (silver) from Cecil and a Partridge Plymouth Rock standard cock for a Mr. Lagerbach(?) in the Central NY. area. Very pleasant visit.

Cecil & Dumont were out in the barn and so out I went; we stayed out in the barn and Dumont selected the Sebrights he wanted (which Cecil gave to him) and then went in the house and "visited."

11.
Sumner & friend stayed for about 40 minutes. When they got up to leave, I did too. Cecil insisted that I not hurry off. I sat down & we talked for about 3 hours — mostly about poetry
but also about flower gardens (Mary Rose & SRP). I had a grand time & so did Cecil & Mary.

Cecil: "Come back soon. You're good company and you make me feel young." What a lovely thing to say. Cecil & Mary never looked better, especially Cecil.
They gave me a quart of fancy
New York maple syrup & I took my leave. Home by about 9:30 P.M.

Lots of driving all weekend—

$$\begin{array}{r} 111 \text{ miles one way (Eekdale to} \\ \times 4 \hspace{15em} \text{Flemington)} \\ \hline 444 \text{ miles} \end{array}$$

$$\begin{array}{r} 25 \text{ miles (Eekdale to Montrose)} \\ \times 2 \\ \hline 50 \text{ miles} \end{array}$$

— almost 500 miles of driving in two days; I'm not at all tired this morning, however.

I passed through New Milford last night on my way to Cecil's— and again this morning at 8 A.M. Lots of driving. I am very pleased to be here at Blue Ridge this morning and to have this time to re-group.

11/14/89 - Devoted virtually all of my energy today to my poultry. No substitute calls and so I got up at 7 A.M. and went out and cleaned out the poultry house:
sifted the litter to create a base of dry powdery droppings/shavings:
Good winter insulation for the floor and very absorbant. Installed waterers in 4 or 5 of the individual pens and then washed the windows.
Today was the first day in several that the birds were released - the temperature was mid-60's today and sunny & breezy. Feel like Spring. The birds stretched out in the sun and had a grand time. Moi aussi. Decided to do-accession the 2 pair of Americanas and the Buff <sup>1928</sup>
Rock cockerel & the Buff Wyandotte

2.
Cockerels. The last 2 will probably become good birds but I am not interested in raising standard Duff Rocks & Wyandottes. The Ameraucanas, I have discovered,
are not up to standard type & color and so I will not keep them. Packed them up and took all 6 to the Nicholson Livestock Sale at 4 P.M.

To my great surprise and pleasure,
a nice pair of Silver Sebright Bantams (this year's birds) were among the items to be sold - I decided to buy them and got them for $11.00 the pair. 1929

and so I de-accessioned 6 birds
for $14.50 (-$2.18 commission) or $12.32
and I purchased two for $11.00,
leaving a net profit for the adventure of $1.32 - plus I now have a pair of Sebrights, which I have wanted for some time. I have to put the breaks on I think with Bantams. I now have:

- 1 pair - Silver Sebrights
- 1 pair - Cuckoo Belgian
- 2 pairs + 1 cockerel - Dutch Modern Games
- 3 hens - <sup>BBR</sup> American Game Bantams
- 1 hen - S. C. L. O. Leghorn Bantam

→ I'm not really that interested in raising these Bantams & competing with them at the shows. It's just that they are nice birds and I like having them around.

11/14/89 - Shaved off my beard; first time in years - and what an unusual sensation

11/16/89 - got a short hair cut - essentially a crew-cut that I allow to lay down forward on my head.

SRP modifying his image - "image adjustment" as DWP calls it; the problem with the beard was that it was largely white and many of the kids in the area schools seemed to think I am about 85 years old. And so, vanity of vanities, I have shaved off the beard & <sup>had the hair</sup> cut short to show them how "youthful" SRP really is. 1931

11/16/89 - 6 P.M. - Mrs. Kenneth Rhodes phoned and asked me if I could be interviewed at 2 P.M. on 11/21/89 at
the Lackawanna Historical Society.
Naturally I said yes. No salary is $16,000. What are the hours?
Will I be given <sup>the</sup> County's medical insurance coverage & retirement benefits? Very probably. If I am offered the job, I will very probably accept it. It would be nice to announce at the Thanksgiving dinner table
that I have accepted a job.
We shall see. $16,000 + medical & retirement plus 10 A.M. - 4 P.M. hours would be workable, although the salary is low.

"11/17/89—"Heat Machine Plus" turned on to about 50°F and left on all night in the Poultry House. During the night the temperature outside dropped to about 20°F and to my great pleasure
it was above 40°F inside the poultry building when I went out at 7 A.M.
I am very optimistic about the effectiveness of the heater and about the winter-worthiness of the building. I have yet to do a fair amount of insulating—which should make the building much more heat retentive than it now is (and it works very well as it now stands). The need for individual cages is always great for the poultry fancier & (936
I have begun construction (on 11/15/89)

of five additional cages — four <sup>2.</sup>
for bantams or small birds and one large cage for a large standard rooster. Two or three more hours of work and the fine cages will be largely completed — and that will give me 15 individual or pair cages / coops inside of the large Coop. The fact that I can get inside the new poultry house is a beautiful feature that my earlier poultry buildings did not have. Among the many <sup>attractive</sup> features of the new building is the fact that there is only one door to close — and it is wonderfully solid and secure and easily double-closed. During the 1937
very very nasty weather yesterday ( 50-60 M.P.H. Windy and torrential rain) the <sup>putty</sup> building and the Church weathered the storm beautifully. A little water came in around the glass on two windows which are badly in need of re-caulking, which I have known since their installation.

 The putty is old & cracked away during the installation. The windows can be re-caulked sans difficulty in less than an hour and that, of course, will be done as soon as possible.
 Reader: all these details about SKP
 and his putty are fascinating, n'est-ce pas?

THE LEADER.

CITY SMALL TALK.

— A couple of Carbondale gentlemen went over to Tinker's creek the other day to fish for trout. They fished for two or three hours, caught a fine lot of trout, and then, just for the fun of the thing, shot a large, fat turkey which belonged to an old farmer on whose premises they were. He said he guessed they'd better pay him about $2.50 for that gobbler, and they said they guessed they would. They brought it home and sold it for $3.05. Such speculation is commendable.

This kind of trespassing still plagues those of us who live near Tinker's Creek.

Even as far

violated the privacy of country folks'
worlds.

Dear Nathan,

Glad to hear that your Tipplers are doing fine. As you know, pigeons are very rugged and tough birds, but it is probably a good idea not to allow them to raise young during the cold winter months either close up the nest boxes or separate the males from the females but not until any young that they might have are out of the nest. I keep my males and females separate except when they are raising young. I will mate up my breeding pairs for 1990 around the middle of February (which is when most Tippler breeders begin raising young).

Your new coop will, I'm sure, be a good one. I like its up high location: that will be good for keeping cats and other predators away from the birds.

Cracked corn is not good for pigeons, although they will eat it. The sharp edges on the corn can cut their throats and that could easily lead to canker.

Whole corn is much better — and small kernel corn is better than large kernel corn. The pigeon feed that I use has a combination of about 10 grains in it and one of them is popcorn.

also, it is important to feed your pigeon grit that is manufactured especially for pigeons. There are two or three kinds of pigeon grit on the market and they are all equally good. Just give the birds a hand-full of grit once a week. That's enough.

I have some good information on how to train tipplers and I will make a xerox copy of all of it and send it to you so you can train your young tipplers next Spring.

Dear Andy—

Thank you for your letter of 11/10/89.
It's always a pleasure to hear from a fellow tippler breeder & flyer.

Enclosed are three fly report forms. Fill out completely and mail to me one of the forms
after each fly that you participate in. The cost in entry fees for each fly is $1.50.

I have enclosed some material
on how to train and fly tipplers for long-time flying. It may sound like a lot of trouble to go through, but it is a system that works. 1943

Best of luck to you in your tippler flying. I look forward to receiving fly reports from you on your winter series flies.

Sincerely,

Mondays are always good days for me to be a substitute. It gives me the time to sort through my briefcase and put in order the mountain of accumulated paper there. The process of keeping the paper worked up-to-date and in order must not be interrupted. There is life and there is the record of life as it is lived. It is very important that we record to a careful degree how we live our lives — important to the individual "recorder" and very interesting to those who come after us. It's all a part of the endless search for meaning and understanding.

Devoted much time and energy to my precious poetry both on Saturday and Sunday: finished construction of five additional individual coops à l'intérieur of the large building: four for fantoms and one for standard. 1947
That brings the total number of individual or pair coops inside <sup>2.</sup>

the large building to fifteen - which should be sufficient to take care of any poultry needs that I might have. The very nice feature of these individual/pair coops is that none of them takes up any of the floor space or perching space of the birds in the large coop:
all the individual / pair cages
are up off the floor and all of them have good access to sunlight. I am well pleased with the design and implementation of these small coops. On Sunday I did some weatherizing / insulating on the West wall of the main coop, which gets hit directly by the winter winds.

In the middle of Saturday afternoon, as<sup>3.</sup>
I was hammering away, I heard a car horn. I emerged and greeted Pastor Bissel & a friend who were there to talk about the building and grounds at Elkdale where I live. The Church is again making an effort to get clear title to the building & land so that they can sell it to me (or someone else). When the McAlla gave the Church the land in the middle of the 19th century, they included a stipulation in the deed that if the land and grounds were ever to revert to secular use that the land and grounds would revert to the McAlla family. As long as the Eckdals Baptist Church of West 4.

Clifford continues to own the property there is no problem. But what about if they sell the property to me? So they are now making an effort to get a clear title to the property.
Pastor Dissel was at Eckdals on Saturday to sound me out on how much I would/could pay for the land and building. I get the feeling that he is thinking of at least $20,000. If the property becomes available, do I want to spend $20,000 or more for it? If not, where do I then go? Do I pursue the Alvin Seaman's trailer possibility or do I return to the Homestead with Mom and Dad and DWP?

5.

As much and low living at Eekdale,
I will move if the Church wants that much money — at least that's how I see it at present.
If I move, what about the tippler lofts and poultry buildings?
Can I have them moved for less than the cost of rebuilding? That is the determining factor. To take the buildings apart to salvage the raw materials seems unwise: the "locking" nails that I used in building the new poultry building will make it virtually impossible to take it apart. Who moves buildings?
Where would I live at the Homestead? Could I move my 1951 poultry buildings there? Such are the matters that will have to be worked out if the Church 6.

gets clear title to the property.

The most interesting and workable alternative at the moment (10:38 A.M., 11/20/89) seems to me the possibility of living in the un-used trailer up behind the Seaman's barn. Alvin has said on more than one occasion
that he would allow me to live in the trailer if I was interested in so doing. The adventure aspect of such a move appeals to me enormously. Surely nothing will come to a head until Spring or after that. Such legal matters as clearing deeds
and real estate transactions
invariably take place slowly. 1952

NEWS FROM ABROAD

by Sheila Pinder

I had no idea how tiring it was, this business of exhibiting poultry, until these past few weeks. It got hotter and hotter. The show got closer together until I felt I had to work all the time. I had to work all the time. I could do just as stay in the same place!

We still haven't seen the video tape which Jane sent from Ohio (the one with the Poultry Show on it and your editor) but we did manage to see a short clip of it at our friends house. Cliff took one look at the size of the Show Hall, at a pen of most beautiful black-tailed Japanese and that was it. You've done it now Jane, he's all set to emigrate.

I think I caught a glimpse of a well stocked stall at the side of the Hall on the video, we had a busy day with our own little stall at Rosedale Show. This is the valley next to ours and as beautiful as its name. It's a good job it is only just over the moor top from us, as not only did we have to get the chickens and the ducks there, we had to get the stall there as well. We were lucky to have eight sunny days as we were outside all the stalls are at these little shows. The organizers had kindly reserved a space for us right outside the poultry tent, so we parked the Transit, pointed the birds, opened the back and set a shop.

We had an eight foot table top to spread out all the drinkers, the poultry rings, the framed prints of poultry, the post cards of rare breeds, the framed cigarette cards of chickens... Then we stood back and waited for the crowds. One small boy bought a postcard, then came back for a drinker. The sun shone, there was a long pause in the customers. I stretched out in my deck chair and thought I could quite get to like this.

Then a group of teenage girls discovered that the brightly coloured spiral poultry rings not only fitted on chickens' legs, they fitted fingers as well. We were surrounded by them, all wanting different colours, and off they went with fingers all the shades of the rainbow - could we, we asked ourselves, have discovered a new form of pop jewelry?

The framed cigarette cards sold well. These cards, given away with Players cigarette packets in the early 1960s are now getting as rare as hens teeth. We got very excited then when several people studied them and said, "Oh yes, I've got a set of these at home." But when we asked what sets they'd got, what we got offered was one set of racehorses, three sets of footballers and a set of interesting things to do in an air raid. Not a feather in sight.

We were disappointed that we had nothing from America to sell, as we had hoped to be selling badges and some of the things we set out to sell. In the Poultry Press we have written a list of the addresses from there three times now, each time with an International Reply Coupon, and have not been able to get any reply. Never mind, I'll keep trying as there is no comparable range of goods available on stalls here. We didn't manage to get to Malton Show this year, this was the show which Princess Anne attended, where Mr. Will Burdett was exhibiting the Queen Mother's Buff Orpingtons. Nice to see the Royal Family carrying on the tradition of an interest in poultry - following on after Queen Victoria and her Cochins. The Buff Orpingtons won the best trio class, and from the photos in the papers of Mr. Burdett showing Princess Anne one of the birds, they are very big beautiful birds. Mr. Burdett himself won best soft feather trio and best Orpington Bantam cock and hen, so Malton was a good day for the Orpingtons.

Ingoules amused at a piece I read recently on the subject of chickens interest in rare breeds may be growing over here but they still have a long way to go in Japan. When 125 pupils in Hiroshima were told to draw a picture of a chicken, twelve per cent drew chickens with four legs. Only three children had drawn an accurate chicken - "There is less contact with nature than before," explained the teacher during the survey. A four legged chicken would certainly suit the fried-chicken industry with that many legs they could walk to the Shows themselves! I was very pleased with the way things went. They were very impressed, I think,
with SRP. Most amusingly, as I was going into the dining room for the interview
I chanced to see Hank left littering through the kitchen, ushered by Dorothy Silva. I 1955 decided that I would not say

say anything to Hank at the Carbondale Library's Board of Directors meeting at 7:30 P.M. today -- but he brought up the subject.

Hank: "Did you by chance interview
for the Executive Director position at the Lachawanna Historical Society?" SRP: "Yes. Today at 2. P.M." Hank: "That's why they wanted me to leave through the kitchen. They interviewed me at 1:30 P.M."

Hank: "I don't think they'll offer the job to me. I can't accept a full-time job for several months because of <sup>1956</sup>
what's going on at the store."

I hope they offer you the job."

SRP: "Thank you. If they don't offer the job to you, I hope they offer it to me. It would be nice if one of us gets it."

Hank suspected that I had applied for the job because he saw Historical Society Stationery among the papers in the folders that each interviewer had; in addition, he probably saw my car in the lot.

The job -

- pay between $14,000 & $16,000;
not very good
  - 8 paid holidays
  - a month's sick days if necessary (20 days)
- 1957

- the evening programme (7 or so)
- Society is closed Monday - the hours are 10-5 from Tues. through Friday; Saturday mornings in the summer months.
- full medical insurance for SRP.

If I am offered the job, I will accept it. Given the fact that the CHS is closed on Monday, I could accept <sup>a</sup> substitute call on Monday if I wanted to; if I were to substitute for four Mondays / month, I could supplement my income by about $200/month. We shall see.

STEPHEN BARTON

Stephen Barton is a native of Greenville, North Carolina and spent his formative years in Richmond and Newport News, Virginia. He holds a Bachelor of Music degree from Carson-Newman College, and a Master of Music degree from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

In Virginia, Mr. Barton was in constant demand as a guest conductor for junior and senior high school choral festivals, and as a church choir clinician. He is currently studying toward a Doctor of Musical Arts Degree at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, where he serves as an associate conductor of the University's Choral Department.

DWP and I arrived for the Vaughan Williams Hodie.
Beautiful performance under the very engaging direction of Stephen Barton. We were in the front of the auditorium near the percussion section of the orchestra, and they (the percussion players)
were wonderful to watch.
One of the guys in percussion I know from the Marywood Jazz Ensemble concert.

③ Flower visits:

Before Owl and I went to Marywood for the Singer's Guild Concert, we stopped at the Green Baptist Church and "disengaged" the three bouquets of "funeral flowers" from Bernie's funeral: present usage calls for rigid and horribly "wired" and non-natural appearing bouquets of flowers, especially at funerals.

Connie & Jack Dubernick did not want to waste the flowers on Bernie's grave (given the below-freezing weather) and asked me if I wanted some for the DBC —

I selected three: a beautiful bouquet of <sup>many colored</sup> daisies and two arrangements of <sup>white</sup> spider mums and pink carnations. Having ④ "disengaged" the flowers and made them into four bouquets of flowers. We then went down to the South High Rise and distributed the flowers: two bouquets for Mrs.

1971

Eileen Simpson and one for Delilah Briggs and one for OWP. As you might imagine, the flowers were very well received.

We sat down and visited with Delilah Briggs for about 30 minutes; she is 98½ years old and in wonderful health. Her mind is as clear as a bell and she is in excellent health. She was not expecting our visit (or a visit by anyone) and yet she was dressed in a very

5. lovely dress and was altogether impeccably presented. Surely there is a lesson to be learned from such behavior: always get "dressed" and put your best foot forward, if only for yourself — it's excellent for one's physical and mental health. And speaking of one's health: Delilah is very thin (as is Cecil Rose; as was Aunt Nettie and others) and they all lived well into their nineties. I have many times been around Cecil Rose when food was served and I have never seen him eat more than about six mouthfuls of food. And so there is a lesson to be learned from that.

Mr. Bruce Coe, President

c/o Murray Insurance Agency, Inc.
415 Spruce Street
Scranton, PA 18503

Dear Mr. Coe:

The concert by The Singers' Guild of Scranton this evening was wonderful! I loved it. You and the other officers and all of the members of the Guild are to be congratulated on your professional work of the highest quality.

Allow me to make a couple of observations:

1. The red covers on the scores that were held by the members of the Guild are horrible. Most of them had a clearly home-made look to them and several of them were almost off the scores. What's wrong with the basic black or dark blue scores, such as the ones that were used by the soloists during the concert this evening? Were those red wrappings old bath towels?
2. The acoustics in the auditorium at Marywood are horrible! Thuddy, muffled, non-vibrant. Another auditorium/hall must be found for future concerts. What's wrong with the Houlihan Center?
3. Perhaps the address of The Singers's Guild could be printed in the concert programs?

Again, congratulations on a beautiful evening of music making. I look forward to all future concerts by The Singers' Guild of Scranton.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell

11/27/89 - Nathan Puglisi phoned from Greene, NY - in answer to my letter to him of 11-17-89

- he has gotten rid of "everything
but the tipplers", which is good news; his birds are installed in their new coop "up away from the rats" (heaven help us)

- he wants to get a couple additional pairs of tipplers
from me; I have none available but will try and get a couple here for him from Stanley Ogozalek - I have a couple extra males.

Nathan's enthusiasm is wonderful.

28 November 1989

Mr. S. Robert Powell
P.O. Box 151
Carbondale, PA 18407

Dear Mr. Powell:

The selection committee of the Lackawanna Historical Society today engaged an Executive Director. However, I would like to thank you for the interest you expressed in the Society, and for having spoken to our committee. Your qualifications are, of course, excellent, and you were given serious consideration.

In the event an opening should be available in the Society in the future, I would like to have your permission to communicate with you at that time.

Very truly yours,

Kenneth A. Rhodes,
Chairman, Personnel Committee

SRP very "out of sorts" - - why can't
I get a job anxiety. I was sure that the Lackawanna Historical Society would have made some move by this time. And the other possible employers of SRP have all been silent. When will all this come to an end? Perhaps I should re-contact the people to whom I have made application?
I don't want to be a pain in the neck, however. But, then, perhaps they think I am not interested. I must locate a $20,000 + job: that's all there is to it. I am tired, very tired, of not having any money in a world in which money rules.
I will keep at my job search -
Something will turn up.

1977

Thank God for my birds - were it not for them I think I would go crazy. Yesterday I spent much of the day fussing about the hen house: built and installed a substantial and roomy nesting box that is large enough to accomodate three or four large hens at one time and large enough so that they don't damage their tail feathers while at nest. Its dimensions are ample as were those of the Victorian boxes. Also put up plastic on the West wall of the building and attached it with plasterer's lather - the West wall gets the cold North & West winds during the winter. I was amused and annoyed 1978

to learn that I could not get the<sup>3</sup>.
nest box into the coop through the door: I had to take out a window and put it in the building that way.

The Silver Sebright hen has recovered from her "puffiness" of a day or two ago. I gave her a Terranquin Capsule;
also the <sup>standard</sup> Black Breasted Red old English Game Cockerel appears to be making a recovery - at long last -
from his "puffiness / listlessness". I'm not sure what her problem is: I have given him every medication that I can think of. Yesterday he acted almost normal, which is quite a relief. I want him to

recover for several reasons not the least of which is so that I can raise some O & E Game Clucks next Spring. Also yesterday, one of the Bobwhite Quail here "returned" from the wild and I caught her and have put her inside the henhouse for the winter. Todd came by with one of his pals yesterday -- they were going hunting on Todd's land across from the Church -- and they came out to the henhouse for a visit (his friend is German or Austrian born and very nice). In the course of the conversation, Todd mentioned that he and Colleen will move soon from "the Cabin" to the house that 1980

they have just built by Lake Corno, and Bob will not be able to take the quail that I gave him early this fall. That's grand. I shall be pleased to have the birds back. What I must do is get some new "stock"

from Dominici Audidora so that the quail that I <sup>will</sup> raise this coming summer will not be too closely bred. If I cannot get some quail from Dominici,
I will get some elsewhere.

No new poultry building is working beautifully - the sun streams through the wall of windows on the South and East and the building is quickly warmed. As no time 1981

at all the building is  $50^{\circ}\text{F}$  - even <sup>6</sup> on the coldest days. Dry cold winter days with full sun are fine. Dry cold winter days & no sun are another matter -
but the poultry building is so well built that all is well inside the building.

Laying has re-commenced - one of the Black Orpingtons and one of the Jersey Giants have started to lay very regularly. Soon I will be getting a dozen eggs per day
I imagine. I will make no efforts to collect for incubation
any eggs until February at the earliest. With the possible exception of the fantoms, which will incubate their own eggs.

1982

11/29/89 - Bernice Dubernick's death came as no surprise but none of us was prepared for it. I was very pleased to be asked to be a pallbearer. It's quite a sensation to be carrying down the aisle of Saint Rose of Lima Church the dead body of a friend of about 8 years. Tears poured from my eyes. The mass
for the dead was very impressive:
the two altar attendants (older men) were wonderful in the way they assisted Father Ziyay during the mass. The 6 pall bearers sat on the left and the family sat on the right. During the communion section Louie Speicher & party (who were not part of the funeral but who just happened to be in church for <sup>1983</sup>

daily mass) took Communion. Very few members of Bernie's family are practicing Catholics and so not many took Communion.

The incense was wonderful, of course. I must buy some the next time I am in New York.

The Ceremony in Saint Rose took about 35 minutes; we all then re-boarded our vehicles for the trip to the Cemetery (the 6 pall bearers in a van driven by Oliver Shipley) where we again carried in the body to the funeral chapel at the Cemetery; another ten-minute ceremony and that was that. The funeral was tripartite: ① at the funeral 1984 home (in turn, we all paid our last respects and then got into our cars; the pallbearers were the last group to be called as we then had to put the coffin in the hearse for the trip to Saint Rose); ② at Saint Rose; ③ at Our Mother of Sorrows Cemetery.

From the Cemetery, everyone repaired to 46 Canaan Street for refreshments. DWP drove my car in the funeral procession — position #4: in the car were aunt Eva (Dermie's sister-in-law), Kathy Bubermick & Laurie (who lives with the Bubermicks).

11/30/89 - MTV - Peter

another session of nasty winter weather: temperature around 15°F this morning but not the vicious wind of yesterday, happily. The Heat Machine Plus did its job well during the night - I had the thermostat set about as low as it can go (50°F) and the temperature in the poultry house this morning was about 40°F - which is wonderful: no frozen water dishes and no possibility of frozen combs. Four large brown eggs were laid yesterday - half by Orpingtons and half by Jersey Giants. I was interested to see that brown eggs were selling for about $1.10 at the Nicholson Sale on Tuesday. That is where I will sell my excess eggs this winter/spring.

Dear Sir:

Monro Muffler/Brake is wonderful!

On three occasions I have been to the Monro Muffler/Brake facility on Route 6, Eynon, PA, and on each visit have been professionally served to my complete satisfaction:

1. Installation of new muffler on my Renault Alliance by Jim Evans (Manager) and staff; 11-26-1986;
2. Installation of replacement muffler on my Renault Alliance by Jeff Ackerman (Manager) and staff; 09-28-1988;
3. Brake inspection by Thomas Corrigan (Manager) and staff; same Renault Alliance. I thought I had a brake problem but Thomas Corrigan and staff examined both my front and rear brakes and determined that I did not have a brake problem; 11-21-1989.

As I say, Monro Muffler/Brake is wonderful! I can't say enough good about Thomas Corrigan and his staff at the Eynon facility.

You can be sure that when I do need brakes that I will go directly to Monro Muffler/Brake. <sup>or a new muffler</sup>

Dear Sirs:

Shame on you!

At the November 1989 show of the Garden State Poultry Fanciers' Association at Flemington I stopped at the Kuhl Corporation's sales tables and purchased 25 poultry bandettes (Size 12 for standard Orpingtons and Jersey Giants) for $7.00.

At the time I thought the price was a little high but I decided to spend the money and get them since I needed them. I have since learned that poultry suppliers such as Sidney Shoemaker sell the same product (Size 12, various colors, numbered) for $3.85 for 25 bandettes; $7.00 for 50.

I realize that you are not in business for pleasure. I also realize that I took the bait and purchased 25 bands from you at the Garden State Show. Henceforth I will regard Kuhl Corporation only as a last resort and not, to be sure, as my first choice in poultry suppliers.

Shame on you!

Sincerely yours,

P. S.: How many suckers do you think it takes before word gets around about the price structure of a given organization?

Editorial

BY Felix Khan

I hope every one had a fun summer. As for me, it's been a busy one. I have not received any articles or any news worthy items that warranted a bulletin. In fact I have not heard from President Wayne Tomsic for at least six months. As to the proposals submitted by the members I haven't a clue. I had contacted Wayne some months back regarding the price of bands at which time he elected to set the price of bands and promised to take the heat from the board. I have received only one letter regarding the band price from one of the board members and I can only say one thing; that the show can't go on without leadership. I have done all I can as a secretary and am not in any position to make any decision on my own. In light of all the facts I have decided to resign from the position of secretary and allow some one else who may have more time to take charge and deal with the politics. There has not been a single officer's communication since the new board was elected last December. This seems a disservice to the members and because I would not want it this way, I will resign from my position on December first. I hope that someone is elected to take on the job. This will be the last bulletin that I will put out.

With this bulletin you will find a page of six photograph that my associate Kevin Coleman and I have taken using the high speed strobe equipment that I have designed and developed over this past summer. These are just sample photographs that I have put together for the members. I continue to take pictures of pigeons in flight and have most of these available for sale to the members in a limited edition. The cost of a black and white 8"x10" is $50.00 and a color photo of same size is available for $75. anyone interested in these photos please contact me.

If anyone wants to purchase these photos or would like to know more about the selection please contact me. I do plan to incorporate these images into my book. I had planned to use some of these photos in the "Year Book" but I am sorry to report that I have not been able to produce one due to a poor response from the members. Only a handful asked for one which is resulting in the money being refunded to those who sent in for one. I am producing post cards on my own which will be available through American Pigeon Journal and direct from me. Also next year we will produce a high quality calendar of pigeons in flight. I am utilizing, at the moment, tipplers only. But future plans include other breeds as well.

I flew my young birds 13:02 this year which I am happy about. These birds are cross of various strains and are doing real well in present weather. I got some birds from Oskar early this year. These birds have improved my stock tremendously.

Out of 3500 bands we have sold only 2600 bands this year. This is a loss and now I am ordering only 2600 bands for the next year. Since the board is has not worked on this issue I think this will be ok.

"For the time flown, the birds flew very good and very high at times, but I believe the high humidity and heat eventually got the better of the kit. However, there is next year. Yours in the sport, Oskar Zovich."

Fall Fly IV, October 21-22, 1989

Zone 1

Milan Kobulsky: 11:34. (Official System). Eight cock birds (FTA-89: 224, 227, 232, 233, 235, 267, 292, 297) released at 7:18 A.M. and dropped with droppers at 6:52 P.M. ## Report by S. Robert Powell, Central Timer, on the ten F.T.A. flies for 1989, Zone I.

Please note that all Official System fly times are given before all Honor System fly times. Please note, in addition, that ALL times reported to the Central Timer are given in this list, including those times that have been disqualified. Disqualified times are here reported because it is important to know how all competing kits performed in a given fly, even if those kits have been disqualified. Disqualified times, of course, earn the flyers in question zero for a time. Disqualified times, in addition, are not included in the Honor Rolls.

You will be interested to know that 11 F.T.A. members (Basic, Kelly, Kobulsky, Kvidera, Lukek, Mead, Ogozalek, O'Rourke, Powell, Zamanian, Zovich) entered a total of 53 of the flies for 1989, zone I. (If all of those flyers had entered the ten Zone I flies there would have been a total of 110 flies entered.) Those 11 flyers paid a total of $82.56 in entry fees and those funds have all been forwarded by the Central Timer to Felix Khan for deposit.

After the 10 flies for Zone I, nine new fly times, all Official System, have been added to the 1989 F.T.A. Honor Rolls:

Spring II	Oskar Zovich	15:39
Spring II	John Mead	15:08
Summer I	Smal Basic	15:08
Summer II	Milan Kobulsky	15:39
Summer III	Al Lukek	13:59
Fall II	Al Lukek	12:19
Fall III	Milan Kobulsky	11:47
Fall IV	Milan Kobulsky	11:34

Our congratulations to those flyers on their achievements. Milan Kobulsky's time (11:34) for the Fall IV fly (the Stock Fly) is a new F.T.A. record for that fly.

No new fly times, Honor System, have been added to the 1989 Honor Rolls after the 10 flies for Zone I, 1989.

The Central Timer has received 36 fly reports for the 10 flies in Zone I this year: 14 Spring Series (11 Official System, 3 Honor System), 12 Summer Series (6 Official System, 6 Honor System), and 10 Fall Series (Official System, 3 Honor System). Nine of those 36 fly times have been disqualified: Spring Series (4 Official System, 0 Honor System), Summer Series (1 Official System, 2 Honor System), Fall Series (1 Official System, 1 Honor System).

Felix when you fellows complain about some of us not flying in competition, I have a very bad heart, am diabetic, floating blood clots, high blood pressure and other problems. During bad weather and when I'm in the hospital my grandchildren care for my birds. I love my birds, I like the bulletin. I like the feeling of belonging. If I must fly to be a member please return my check and I will drop out. I have the Lovett Strain I have birds that fly 9 hours sometimes, I don't do any training other than flying out of kit boxes. I have tried to fly breeding birds and they dont fly well. They land soon and want to play house... I wish you and the club the best.

Charles J. Dick

Please delete me from the membership rolls as I have ceased flying as I am moving out of state this fall. I do not plan to have birds (nor will my development allow them). Thank you for the fine information I have received from you.

Jerry O'Rourke

The bulletin was great. I enjoy them very much.

George

Another bulletin well done - I would like to reprint some of the articles, with your approval.

Reply ! That is fine.

Joe Kelley

Keep up the good work as Secretary Treasurer of the F.T.A. Hope you can publish more pictures in the bulletin and year book of the tipplers that fly in the contests.

Karl E. Weyermann

Great bulletin! But, I can use a lot of tips on feeding and flying technique. Right now with this hot weather I am lucky to get two hours out of my birds. Until later.

Bob R. Gaber

Very interested in the Iranian birds. Sure would love to try some sometime. Still flying for fun.

Tim Kvidera

Received the recent F.T.A. Bulletin. Another well done issue. Also was impressed with the copies of Powell articles that have been submitted to A.F.T. I do have a problem with your paragraph on price of bands. Our F.T.A. constitution specifically designates that the price of bands is set by the Executive Board. It is not within the power of the Secretary to make any change on his own for whatever reason. Until the Board approves any change it is premature for you to set and promulgate anything different than the current $3.50/25 price. Have had a good breeding season just no time to settle let alone properly train birds which is somewhat disappointing. Am using the tipplers as feeders now as is no use breeding more young tipplers if I am not going to fly them. Hope all is well with you and yours.

Ken Willborn

Your Iranian crosses sound great. Good luck with them. As for the proposals for the changes in the F.T.A. rules, I am all in favor of awarding trophies. I would be real proud to win a trophy for a fly. I plan on flying this coming year. How will the trophy system work. I acquired some really good breeders from Al Lukez. I live just 40 miles south from Al we both work together at Ford Motor Co. Yours in the sport.

Dave Fuller

I am Andy Fuller's Dad. Andy is a new Junior Member of the Flying Tippler Association. Andy and I didn't have any idea how much bands cost a few weeks back. You see, we had recently acquired two

Mr. Mon phoned me at 5:45 A.M. — I don't think I've ever been called so early to substitute. No problem. Not surprisingly I fell back asleep and awakened about 7 A.M., which meant I had to move quickly. Arrived at Mountain View in good order. Another nasty/cold morning — about 10°F. All was well in the hen house but, given the bitter cold, I turned on the 250 watt infra-red bulb when I turned off the Heat Machine Plus. No latter has an air filter that quickly gets filled with dust if the machine is on during the day when, due to scratching & such, the dust is raised. And so I turn on the Heat Machine after the birds have gone to roost at night and turn it off at dawn.

 During the day the <sup>infra-red</sup> heat will keep the temperature above freezing, even if the sun does not come out / remain out.

Last night Edith Gardner phoned me just as I was coming through the door at the Homestead: she was phoning to report that her sister-in-law had died <sup>age 94</sup> on Tuesday and that the funeral will be on Saturday from Scotlan Funeral Home in Simpson. DAP and I went for an evening's visit at 80 Cemetery Street and while there John & Dorothy Gardner arrived from Holcomb, NY. for the funeral. At the evening's end, we had tea & snacks (cookies, chips, ice cream) around the kitchen table.

12/6/89 - Grant - MTV

Three years ago today I hit a patch of ice on the Dundaff Street hill above Carbisdale and slid into the ditch; the car spun and whacked into a tree: $2,000+ in damages & out of commission for many weeks. I am now, today, "insurance Clean", i.e., the surcharge will come off my insurance payments.

John Price Insurance Agency in Carbisdale became a $100/year member of the Historical Society & so I decided to switch my insurance company — from C. B. Tormaine to Price. One hand must wash the other. Tormaine insurance has never become a member of the CHSHM and so to hell with them.

I would love it if they would call me and ask why I cancelled, because I would tell them right out why. The best part of the story is this: my auto insurance will now cost me about  $\frac{1}{2}$  of what it cost at C. B. Tomaine's — my annual auto insurance will now cost about \$500, which is grand.

John Price, dealer, is a nice guy. all that was on Monday. While

I was seeing John Price about auto insurance, I was having my Renault "winterized" at Main Street Service in Carbondale —

oil change and filter, new battery, the works. Cost: $88.82 2004

Hopefully I will not have to call the AAA again to get my car started: twice last week I had to call them and White's Garage in Clifford came to my rescue. The lady who came to start my car with "jumper cables" has a granddaughter at Mountain View (in Min Grant's homeroom) who knows me. Nice people. The grandmother is, I believe, Mrs. White's Garage.

— CHS&M Christmas Cards — 200 of them mailed at CPO on 12/2/89 at 12:30 P.M.; received by everyone in the local area on 12/4/89 — which is excellent.

For the first time in days and days, the temperature has gone above freezing. What a relief. a couple of days ago the temperature went down near  $0^{\circ}\text{F}$  and accompanied by vicious NW winds. Horrible! When the temperature goes below  $20^{\circ}\text{F}$  it is difficult to endure and I hate it. Today it feels like Spring.

Most extraordinarily — there are 11 teachers out today at Mountain View (Mrs. Hagenbach, Tully, Slick; Miss Gifford, Grant, Rakor; Mr. Slocum, Barankovich, Miller, Loman, Moreale). There is some kind of meeting going on somewhere.

There are almost never more than 4 or 5 out at one time here at Mountain View.

Dear Stan -

Well I can't say that I blame Felix for resigning. Having served as secretary / treasurer of the FTA,
you know from first hand experience
how maddening / frustrating / thankless that job can be. I'm wondering where we go from here? Who is going to pick up the pieces?
Wayne does not appear to have the time or interest to do so,
but he will have to take action
now or he will not be fulfilling
his responsibilities as President.

Things here in Elksdale are well. I had a couple of bad losses

2008

this Fall - lost a kit of 5 excellent young birds one day; lost a couple others to hawks - but all in well since I still have the parents of the lost birds. You would think that after a kit had successfully trapped 10 or 15 times that you wouldn't lose them. I guess not.

I have culled fairly close this year (at $10 for 50 lbs of feed, who wouldn't?) and will winter over about 20
birds.

This year was not a very good one for me for flying - lousy
weather on almost all the 3.

FTA fly dates, and it seemed like it took forever for my birds to finish moulting. Just when they returned to full feather
and were in beautiful condition
for flying, it was too cold to fly them. That's slow business I guess.

I hope that things are well
with you.

Dear Mr. Wulff:

LET'S BE FAIR

By S. Robert Powell
Elkdale, PA

Have you ever overheard someone at a poultry show make negative remarks about a particular breed or variety of poultry on exhibition? Have you ever heard a poultry judge, when about to judge a given variety or breed, say to his clerk: What in the world are these?

Many of us have overheard negative remarks about particular birds on exhibition at the poultry shows. To be a spectator as birds are critiqued by spectators or by a judge and to overhear negative remarks is maddening, especially if the birds in question are of a breed and variety found in the APA and ABA standards of perfection and the birds in question can not be disqualified on any account.

Some breeds--standard Plymouth Rocks, Brahmans, Leghorns, bantam Old English Games, Cochins, Modern Games, for example--are well known and easily recognized by virtually all poultry fanciers and their standards are well known by most judges. Other breeds--Orloffs, Ameraucanas, Vorwerks, Buckeyes, Catalanas, Aseels, for example--are not well known by either the general public or by the complete body of judges of poultry. This, very probably, is because they are raised by very few breeders and are exhibited by even fewer breeders.

But to speak negatively of those breeds because they are not commonly seen or to look down on breeds and varieties that have only recently been recognized by the APA and/or the ABA--Snowy Mallards, Blue Langshans, for example--is to do a great disservice to the poultry fancy as a whole. Everyone is not interested in raising Plymouth Rocks, Old English Games, Cochins, and Leghorns, to name just four of the very popular breeds that are exhibited in large numbers at virtually all poultry shows. If we were all interested in raising and exhibiting only those breeds (which I am not speaking against by any means) the poultry world would be a much less interesting place than it now is. One of the great virtues of the world of exhibition poultry, in fact, is the almost unbelievable variety among poultry breeds. And the poultry fancier can freely choose from among them all in selecting the breeds and varieties that he will raise and exhibit.

Let's all try to be more tolerant of each other's choices. Instead of making negative remarks about a breeder's birds, especially those of a new breeder or exhibitor, why not go up to that breeder at a show and ask him to tell you about his birds or to tell you how he got started with them. Your interest will do wonders for the ego of that new breeder and it will help to guarantee the virtually endless variety that characterizes most poultry shows. We don't want the list of endangered breeds and varieties to grow any larger than it now is. The old adage is still as true as it ever was: If you can't say something nice about someone (or his birds), don't say anything at all.

Just as poultry breeders/exhibitors should not discriminate against other breeders' birds, so, too, poultry show managements should not discriminate against any of the various classes of poultry. The APA Standard calls for six classes of standard chickens: American, Asiatic, English, Mediterranean, Continental, All Other Standard Breeds. The APA Standard calls for five classes of bantam chickens: Games, Single Comb Clean Legged Other than Games, Rose Comb Clean Legged, All Other Combs Clean Legged, Feather Legged. The ABA Standard calls for seven classes of bantams: Modern Games, Old English and American Games,

Single Comb Clean Legged, Rose Comb Clean Legged, Featherlegged, All Other Combs Clean Legged, Bantam Ducks.

As we all know, the numbers of birds in all of those classes are rarely, if ever, equal. Some classes are invariably large and others are invariably small. But regardless of the numbers, no class or classes should be discriminated against by show managements by being put together with another class or classes. To do so is to explicitly discriminate against the smaller classes (the ones being consolidated) and to implicitly discourage potential breeders of birds in those classes from raising those birds. The potential breeder of one of the rarer breeds or varieties might say to himself: Why should I raise Campines (for example). The Continentals are invariably grouped with another class.

Ribbons, medals, plaques, and trophies are, of course, a major expense to poultry organizations and clubs. But to protect itself in the event that there are few birds in a given class or if the number of entries for the show should be way down, a show management can easily stipulate that there must be a specific minimum number of birds and/or exhibitors in a given class before ribbons, medals, plaques or trophies are awarded.

The central point is this: The more breeds and varieties exhibited at poultry shows the better, and the more breeders of birds in all of the poultry classes the better. Let's all make an effort not to discriminate against any varieties, breeds or classes. In the long run, the poultry fancy as a whole will benefit and we, because we have shown ourselves to be tolerant, will all be the better for the experience.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS: OF THE EAST-WEST KIND

A new world, a new balance

WASHINGTON — In the closing days of World War II, German troops and refugees streamed westward, trying desperately to surrender to the Americans. Their goal: Avoiding capture by the Russians and confinement behind what their propaganda minister, Joseph Goebbels, had already called "the Iron Curtain."

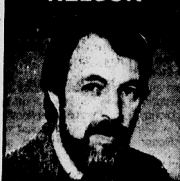

A barrier of barbed wire, land mines, automatic machine guns and tracker dogs was built from the Baltic to the Balkans. For nearly 50 years, the occasional desperate escapes and grinding confinement have continued, and the fortified East-West divide was a given fact of international life.

Life changed last week, and all of a sudden diplomats and scholars were talking of a new world, a new map, new alliances and a new balance of international power.

With no warning on Thursday, an unknown new East German leader named Egon Krenz punched holes through the Berlin Wall — described by President Bush as "the most vivid symbol of the Iron Curtain."

Thousands of East Germans who had lived for 28 years within the sounds and smells of the West poured through the Wall — some to stay, others just to look around, go back and hope that maybe life has changed for good. The consequences of opening the

Dear Felix —

I was sorry to learn that you have resigned as the Secretary / Treasurer of the F.T.A., but I can't say that I blame you. I'm sure it's a thankless job with endless aggravation: the complaining and the politics are not pleasant to endure, I'm sure. I think it is good that you set the record straight on the non-cooperation that you have had from the President of the F.T.A. If Wayne is not jolted into action by your resignation then he will be guilty of not performing his duties as President. The ball is now in his court and he must take action and reorganize the Club.

I have made enough copies of the 1989 F.T.A. Honor Roll for Zone I for all members and could mail them out to all members, but I am not willing to do so unless I will be re-imbursed by the F.T.A.
If I mail them out and send you a receipt for the postage (I'll pay for the xeroxing and the envelopes), will I be reimbursed for the postage?

12/9/89 - Dampness problems in the hen house: the poultry problem in the winter is dampness. Apparently the Heat Machine's fan has been causing the damp
air to build up in the <sup>lower</sup> back corner. Three or four birds were coughing away this morning.
My first thought was that it was the dammed cold weather (about 0°F this morning), but it is not the cold that is the problem - it's the dampness.
The rear wall and the ceiling
in the damp corner are wet.
That's probably the cause of the colds - damp and cold. The <sup>2019</sup>

Heat Machine is not on at the <sup>2.</sup> moment — rather the 250 watt infrared bulb is on and will stay on over night. I hope that tomorrow is a dry and sunny day so that I can dry out thoroughly the hen house.

I wonder if a de-humidifier would help out? It might just be the solution. Bought some Terramycin powder at agway late today and tomorrow I will put it in all of the water dishes in the hen house. The amazing thing is that the birds know what is best for them — they have 2020

not, I've noticed, shown any interest in roosting in the far corner (now damp) and that used to be a favorite <sup>walk</sup> roosting area. The roof and wall of the opposite corner where the 20+ young birds all roost are not damp at all — which tells me why the far corner is the problem.

I believe that I can convert this mess in a day or two — different water arrangements will probably have to be made.

Possibly I will have to empty all water dishes at night and fill them in the morning. 2021

I had dinner at home tonight and it seems as though I haven't done
that for weeks and weeks: bacon, potatoes, Celery, rutabaga and tea. What a pleasure! Dinner at home and the evening at home.

12/25/89 — Seventeen days of poultry
illness — now behind me.

Thank God. Was it an outbreak of laryngotracheitis?
Was it bronchitis? Colds?

I shall have to consult a poultry disease book &
see what I can determine.

No old birds died — it now occurs to me.

We Present A ROSE TO...

ROSEBUD

By Bob DeLancey

GEORGE SCHROEDER

During the past several years we have given out a host of rosebuds to those who have played rolls — some great and some small — in making the pure-bred poultry Fancy the wonderful hobby that it is. This month we are pleased to honor George Schroeder of Prompton, Pennsylvania. This man has spent just about all of his life as a Poultry Fancier. His famous Cochins Bantams have distinguished themselves during all of that time helped, of course, by this master breeder, conditioner and exhibitor. George's Cochins won at all of the BIG ones of the forties and fifties — Boston — Madison Square Garden — New York Show and countless others. It was in 1942 that he first started with the Whites and then added the famous Caskey-Blandford line of Blacks in 1976. George was a member of one of America's most famous fancier groups —

I wouldn't be at all surprised to learn that my article on George Schroeder in the 10/1989 issue of P.P. prompted this "Rosebud."

"THE HONESDALE COCKY CROWD". This group staged the most famous Summer Show America has ever known — the like of which may never be seen again. George is a licensed APA Judge who has the respect of all who have ever shown under him. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word and his winning smile is often encircled by smoke from his famous pipe. His work for many years was representing Limestone Products where he worked side by side with the late great Harvey Wood. He has been a dear friend of this family for many, many years and it is with a sense of pride that we number him among our very best friends. We are honored to present this little token of appreciation to you, George — A small honor for a big man in the wonderful Poultry Fancy.

Hello Bob,

I thank you for your most recent letter, its very good to hear from you. You know, its funny but I was just thinking of you the other day. Was wondering as to how you were coming along as I haven't heard from you in quite a while.

Well, things are really screwed up in the PTA now with Felix resigning the position of secretary. I believe that he expected too much cooperation, that is, from the other officers. Some of these officers won't act quickly on matters, they just let the letters sit on their desk or wherever. I know this to be true sorry to say!

When a club is so spread out as this one is it becomes quite difficult to get anything accomplished. In the local club, the ATU, it was difficult enough and we were rather close to one another in distance. We were able to speak face to face and still there were problems! In the PTA, all must be accomplished by letter. Felix would telephone now and again different members and discuss matters, how many others would do that? Not many, I assure you. I for one couldn't afford to do that. When I was the secretary I thought that things could change, that more members would write articles and send them in and that more would compete in the flys. I found out that you can write articles yourself in an attempt to arouse interest in competing and so on but it was all to no use. Like the old saying about leading the horse to the water... well it certainly applies in this case! What a sorry state of affairs!!!

I agree that Wayne should do his duty as the club President as we are going nowhere and fast! If Felix really did resign as he says he would then he must have sent all of the club equipment to Wayne. Who else would he send it to? And now, what happens? I haven't the slightest idea? One thing that I do know is that he is very busy at work, he is some kind of a boss at United Parcel Service.... Wayne Tomsic.

As far as my tiplpers are concerned, all is OK. I have more than enough 99 tiplpers for the '90 season as I like to keep more than I need. Should I lose some then there is always those extra individuals to fall back on. I must have about 15 1980 tiplpers that were settled and flying before being put away for 1990. I believe that there is a 50-50 ...cocks and hens. I also have that kit of three hens that flew those first two contests for me the times were 13.14 and 14.46. I am considering using them for breeding because they've already proven themselves. As for breeders, I should have ten pairs... seven of the Gordon Hughes' and three of the Davies/Partholomew strain. There are a few individuals that will be replaced because of various reasons.

So now you are experiencing it all, I mean by that your kits are becoming lost. Bob Kennedy would often remark how he lost kits and individuals after having flown them for a year or so! Lucky for me, I haven't as yet lost a kit, a whole kit, that is. I have lost some kit members and so I consider it to be just luck or whatever? Its good that you still have the parents, some fanciers sell the parents as they are feeling confident with the youngsters. When they lose those youngsters then they're in a world of hurt!

Like everything else, the cost of feed goes up and we must pay. You're lucky that you've only 20 tiplpers or so. Look what I have with the breeders, the flyers, the droppers and the Rollers!!!

You wouldn't want my feed bill especially at breeding time!!! I can't complain to anyone about it so I just pay and pay and pay.

Weather...good and bad...its one of the things that a competitive tippler fancier has to contend with. Ther's nothing you can really do about it, some fly days are better than others so just make the best of it when possible.

As for John Mead and myself, we still have the tipplers though it seems that we are leaning more towards the Rollers at present. He seems to be disgusted with the going-on in the tippler world. In plain words there is a lot of bull going on. The flyers aren't given the credit for what they've accomplished especially in the ATU. I won't give you the WHOLE STORY here but we are disgusted with and won't be re-joining the ATU for 1990. It's become a SHOW club more than a flying one which it once was. Years ago, there were many contestants and now but a few remain and they are losing the enthusiasm.

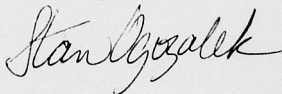

John goes to work in the morning and has to rely on his wife to release the kit. She in turn has to readjust her work schedule to do this for John. Its becoming more difficult for her to do this now and so that is where the problem lies. My own wife does the same for me although she does not work full time. The only thing that I can say is that in time we'll see what happens.

In the meantime, both of us are flying our kits of Rollers and looking for enjoyment from them. Its something different and that's for sure!

I guess that I've said enough for now and so I'll sign off...
All the best to you in the New Year 1990 !!!

Sincerely,

Stan Ogozalek

12/11/89 - Temperature / humidity control:

The Heat Machine Plus has been removed from the hen house and the dampness problem is evaporating. Even with the three central overhead vents open at night the temperature inside the building - with only one of the 250-watt heat lamps on - remains well above freezing, which is extraordinary. When the temperature gets down about  $0^{\circ}\text{F}$  I will have to close up the vents and turn on the 2nd heat lamp to keep the temperature bearable à l'intérieur. But in the meantime, all is very well. The coop feels better already: the air is lighter and dryer and the floor litter is much, much drier. Formerly,

 the damp air settled near the floor and lower walls and caused the moisture and dampness
 in the building and the growing colds. It was also my practice not to open the overhead vents
 and so there was no changing of the air. Very stupid on my part: warm/impure <sup>air</sup> stacked up in the top part of the building and damp/cold air in the bottom. The lesson to be learned:
 use fresh air with vents. The heat from the heat lamp warms
 up the fresh air (and dry walls)
 at night and keeps it from getting too cold à l'intérieur.
 I almost can not believe how

3.

much dryer the floor litter is now. The thoroughly wet lower walls are drying out nicely and in a day or two should be back to normal.

a Bantam → Birchen Modern Game cockerel died during the night —
not, I'm quite sure, from any weather / temperature problem; he has not been completely well for some time and this death was not a surprise. And so I now have two pairs of Birchen
Modern Game bantams.

— released the Ring Neck Pheasant cock on 12/10/89; a pheasant hen
has been hanging around &

so now there is a pair of Ringneck pheasants somewhere in the area; also the female Bobwhite quail that I released (with 5 others) some time ago. I will continue to put out cracked corn for them. I wonder if the other quail are alive and well?

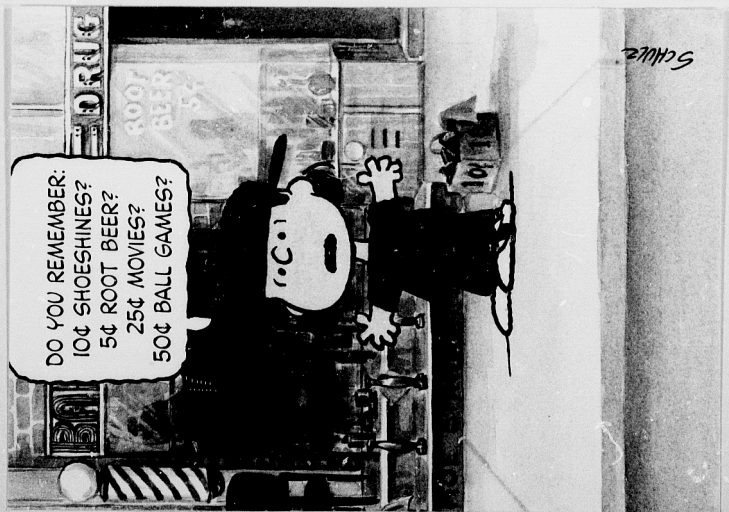

— the Heat Machine is now for SRP's use — and it's grand: instant heat when I return home at night and also in the morning when SRP is <sup>batting &</sup> dressing. Overnight I shall use the electric radiator and not the Heat Machine.

Local residents help develop river management plan

By Robin Macker

Area citizens met in Carbondale last week and suggested the establishment of a voluntary litter removal program to deter the illegal dumping of garbage and other refuse into the Lackawanna River. The action was one of several to help the Lackawanna River Corridor Association develop a management plan for the river.

The non-profit organization, in conjunction with a number of agencies and organizations hosted two public workshops, one in Scranton and another in Carbondale, to receive input from residents or develop the management and develop the plan.

A list of immediate concerns was discussed once the group was divided into two, including: the river's water quality, damage caused by acid water run-off, garbage and toxic dumping, the education of residents about the river, the attainment of land bordering the river, and the involvement of the local youth.

After the groups compiled their issues list, they then offered courses of action.

Chuck Hoffman, planning consultant to the organization, said he thinks the suggestion of local organizations policing the river for polluters is a viable solution.

"It's a good idea to start addressing the problem with a target of a time approach and the standard factory at a time," Hoffman said, in reference to reporting not only major polluters, but those on a smaller scale as well. Under the warden, program a volunteer would be trained to spot illegal dumping. Wardens would also be told which authorities to report the violations to.

"The organization is going to get behind that idea of establishing litter and dumping wardens," said LRCA chairman Bernard McGurl. He also said that there is pending state legislation that would provide for the volunteers' training.

"This area (Carbondale and surrounding communities) has some of the river's most positive attitudes," Hoffman noted as he showed slides of the upper valley part of the river. "But it also has some of the most stunning problems. Fortunately its problems are ones that can still be corrected."

Water quality was another issue. "Improving the water quality was one of our group's main concerns," said resident S. Robert Powell. "If the river's water quality is not improved, then all other efforts will be in vain and cosmetic."

Mayor Moran said that his administration is concerned about the use of toxic materials and the possibilities for those materials entering the river from the former Delaware and Hudson Railroad yard.

"We hope to get the river up to the standards that your particular area wants," said LRCA board member Ray Angeli. "By giving you what you want we'll be at the same time linking the clean up efforts of the river."

12/13/89 - SRP now 46! Yesterday, of course, was the day - and a very pleasant one it was. As the years go on, it seems, one's birthday becomes less and less important. Invariably one must ask himself: how many more years remain to me?

Mom + Dad gave me $25 plus a wonderful pair of insulated underwear from Quik's Army and Navy Store in Scranton. Cousin Peg sent a card and DWP II, flew his heart, wished me a Happy Birthday. DWP and I were both out doing errands independently when I saw his jeep in the Liberty Bank's lot. He + DWP II were inside the bank & <sup>2055</sup> I went in. He picked me up at

Mom's muffer and we went off
in his jeep to Scranton and did more errands. Very pleasant & productive. DWP II insisted that we all wear green or blue round stickers on our noses. Very drill. In the course of the day
I did the following:

- installed feed bag Curtains between the walls of the Poultry house and the main perching area
- ordered a 96-piece Chocolate
"sheet" cake, butter cream
icing, for the Crystal Band
refreshments on Sunday, 12/17/89; ordered in person
from Barbours' Bakery, Salem Avenue

- bought a new pair of black "sneakers" ($14.99) from K-Mart
- had a new muffler and paper installed on my Renault alliance.
- phoned WBB <sup>in NYC</sup> and gave him about a 45-minute evaluation / Critique on her and Christine's proposed cook-book
- dined at home
- purchased a beautiful pair of green army-type pants at the Salvation army store for $3.99
- purchased <sup>$3.99</sup> a bag of terramycin powder (poultry medium) at City Feed, Keyser Avenue - $1.00
Cheaper than at agway. 2057

The dampness and the coeds are, I believe, under control in the hen house: three vents opened at the upper level of the building seem to do the job. Today is coed ( $18^{\circ}\text{F}$ ) but sunny and I'm sure that at the moment (SRP at Mountain View, 9:30 A.M.) my poultry house is bathed in sunlight à l'intérieur. Additional drying-out should take place all day long. The astounding thing is how much easier the coop is to heat when the three central vents are open. This morning the coop felt dry & comfortable even though it was  $18^{\circ}\text{F}$  outside — and I only had a 250-watt infra-red bulb on. Much crowing.

12/13/89 - 11:50 A.M.

Room 231, M.T.V. H.S.: Mrs. Jackson Warm luxurious <sup>winter</sup> sunshine pouring in through the southeast window. It feels like late September. SKP, of course, is sitting in the sun. It's not for nothing that many of the students here call me "Mr. Sunshine".
Naturally I am thinking about my precious poetry as they, too, are now enjoying this same sunlight.
At the moment it must be easily 65°F. in the coop. I shall be anxious to see just what effect all this sun has had today. I believe that if I can get the walls thoroughly dried out that I can prevent any additional moisture build-ups.
We shall see. This sun will be good for the six or so birds that have colds at the moment. I shall be very pleased when I clean up all the colds. Naturally I am feeling a bit guilty: as the keeper of the birds,

it is my fault if they have colds.

Devoted several hours this morning to taking care of Ocean Baptist Church matters: memorial donations for Julius Henry as well as 1990 Giving Envelopes' records. It always pleases me enormously to get such work done during the day as a substitute:
we feel less raped by the experience.
BBC year-end work yet to be accomplished: summary statement financial report by SRP/Financial Secretary; produce annual Report;
mail out 1989 Giving Records.
Preparing <sup>for mailing</sup> and <sup>mailing</sup> out the Giving Envelopes is the worst job, and that's done for another year.

Everyone had a wonderful time; the CRC performance was a wonderful "dessert" for the evening. The food was first class: ham, roast beef, sausage, rigatoni, broccoli & cauliflower, potatoes, apple pie (delicious).

Everything came off beautifully; I am extremely pleased with the way things went. Of course I put in a great deal of effort to make sure that all went well. I even took off the day — two substitute teaching calls came in and I turned them down to make sure that all was set for the dinner/meeting.

12/15/89 - 705 P.M.

Raging blizzard; six inches of snow expected. The first real snowstorm of the winter. I am very glad that this storm did not hit last night, or it would have affected the turn out at the Historical Society's annual meeting and Christmas Dinner (unqualified success).

I hopefully the storm will pass in 24 hours and the streets and roads will be cleared up so that the attendance at the Crystal Band concert on Sunday night will be good. It is supposed to be nasty cold tomorrow and Sunday, but there should be sun - which is wonderful.

Things in the poetry house are not well: at least  $\frac{2}{3}$  <sup>standards</sup> of my flock have <sup>colds</sup>, some worse than others; many also have colds in one or both eyes. I think that possibly the worst is going on right now. Four or five have,

 it appears, returned to normal.
 about a dozen are very sick. I did not accept any substitute
 call this morning so that I could minister to my sick
 birds: went to the North Country Agency in Herrick Center and purchased some Aureomycin & administered it in water, by means of an eye dropper, to all sick birds. When they get sick, they just mope around and don't eat or drink. The medicine is in the water and so they must get water into their systems and so enter SRP and the eye dropper.

 What a process. I treated all sick birds twice today and will do likewise tomorrow & Sunday. By then, most of them should be back on the track.

The <sup>walk of the</sup> coop <sup>are</sup> drying out well and the litter on the floor is fluffy
 and dry - which is excellent.

If I can successfully get the birds through these cases, I believe that all will be well for the rest of the winter. I certainly hope so as illness in the poultry house really gets me

2066

down. I am expecting to see a 4.
marked improvement tomorrow
in the health of many of the sick birds and will be very disappointed if that is not the case.
The hardest hit are the partridge
Plymouth Rocks and the Golden-Laced Wyandottes. The orpingtons are largely ok. The pullets and Cockerels are, as groups, much more vulnerable to cold, it would appear, than are the hens and cocks. Egg production has temporarily stopped, of course.

How I long for all this poultry illness to be behind me. What a lesson I have learned from this dreadful experience.

12/16/89 - "Christmas Eve Dinner" at the Homestead: Mom & Dad, DWP, DWP II, Cousin Peg, SRP. The house is all decorated and tonight we decorated the tree and gave DWP II
presents and did an enthusiastic Christmas presentation because DWP II will not be with DWP over Christmas. This was all preceded by a WSP - sponsored Christmas - eve dinner: gigantic shrimp, Spanish Rice, Tossed Salad, Fruit Pudding. The shrimp were Dad's idea and Mom did the rest. Very enjoyable. When the dinner was all washed, we decorated the tree and that was fun. It was marvelous:
we were all very consciously <sup>2069</sup>

and enthusiastically positing/creating "Christmas memories" for OWP II -
the perfectly wonderful thing about it all is that the experience
back-fired on us and we adults
had a wonderful time - as did OWP II. Mom + Dad and Donald and Peg gave OWP II presents and he really got into opening them.
Very amusing. I will give OWP II's Christmas present to OWP on Christmas day. Peg brought a bottle of Cabernet Sauvignon which we enjoyed with dinner. It will be interesting to see what we all do when actual Christmas eve gets here.

12/17/89 - CHS+M Crystal Band Christmas Concert:
a grand success: SRP set up the entire "refreshments" area and made sure that everything was "in place": dishes,
food, napkins, punch bowls, decorations,
table cloth, coffee urn etc. Picked up a lovely Chocolate sheet cake at Barboun's Bakery at 11 A.M. ($23.00); the Mayfield Big Chief delivered the "food" at 12 P.M. on Sunday (about $40.00). The Baptist Church was full for the concert and the Band played beautifully.
I am very pleased with the way things went from beginning to end:
between numbers I gave Rev. Wilson
the floor and he welcomed everyone;
I explained about the DBC's mission tree and its Christmas tree; I spoke of the Crystal Band and its history; I publicly thanked all those who made cookies and who helped make the concert the success 2071

Crystal Band to perform holiday concert December 17 [By SRP]

The Crystal Band will perform a Christmas concert in the Berean Baptist Church on Sunday, December 17, at 7 p.m.

This concert is sponsored by the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, Inc. as a Christmas gift to the community as a whole. This will be a free concert and everyone is invited to attend.

John Winters, High St., a long-time member of the percussion section of the band, commented on this Sunday's concert as follows: "The program for this year's Christmas concert includes many of the traditional sacred and popular songs of Christmas as well as some new arrangements of some old favorites. Towards the conclusion of the concert, the audience will be invited to sing along with the band as they perform some of the best loved carols of Christmas."

Howard Yepson, Brook St., also a member of the percussion section of the band, said the band was "originally organized in 1879 as a boys' brass band in the Petersburg section of Scranton. The Crystal Band has always provided the opportunity for amateur and professional musicians to develop their musical abilities and perform under capable leadership at little cost to themselves. During the past year, the membership of the band has increased substantially due mainly to an outreach program designed for young musicians in our area. Formed around a nucleus of older musicians with many years of concert experience, musicially-inclined youth now have an organization where they can display their talents in a strong community-minded concert band."

Among the members of the Crystal Band from Carbondale and the surrounding area are: John Winters, Howard Yepson, Melissa Hartmann, Carbondale; Sarah Parry, Childs; Robert Bednarczyk, Simpson; Robert Bishop, Archbald; Gerald Kaminicki, Sheryl Oleaki, Stephen Semonich, Olyphant; and Barney Wilkens, Kingaleys.

"The Crystal Band was founded 110 years ago in northeastern Pennsylvania. At that time there were as many as 50,000 concert bands in the United States and they were staffed with hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic amateur and professional musicians," said Dr. S. Robert Powell, president of the Historical Society and Master of Ceremonies for all concerts by the Crystal Band. "Today such bands are a rarity and those that have survived, like the Crystal Band, are truly community treasures. Not only does the band perform in northeastern Pennsylvania. In the summer of 1975, sponsored by the State Department and under the direction of H. Earl Brink, the band traveled to Romania, where they played 12 concerts to large and enthusiastic audiences during their three-week, 1,600-mile concert tour."

Sunday's concert will be under the direction of Larry F. Hughes, who has selected for this concert a broad range of Christmas music including Leroy Anderson's "Christmas Festival for Band," "He Shall Feed His Flock" from Handel's "Messiah," and the rarely performed "Fantasia on a Hymn by Michael Praetorius," arranged by Robert Foster.

Another very popular work on the program is the dazzling arrangement by Leroy Anderson for concert band of "Sleigh Ride."

A new addition to the repertoire of the band this year is James Christensen's arrangement of "The Wonderful World of Christmas."

This last work was written for and first performed at the Christmas pageant at Disney World in Orlando, FL.

Arranger James Christensen has reversed many roles in this piece. Melodies that for years have been performed by brass or woodwinds, for example, are here performed by new sections of the concert band.

This concert in the Berean Baptist Church, corner of N. Church St. and Lincoln Ave., is the last in a series of four Christmas concerts scheduled for the band by its manager, Karin L. Kreinberg, during the month of December. Earlier this month the band performed at Trinity Baptist Church, Scranton; Abington Manor, Clarks Greene; and Lutherwood, Scranton.

During the summer months the band performs a series of concerts in the parks and outdoor areas of northeastern Pennsylvania, including its annual concert in Carbondale's Memorial Park in June. The main event in the concert year of the Crystal Band is the Annual Spring Concert that takes place in the auditorium of North Pocono High School.

Sunday's concert will be performed in the main sanctuary of the Berean Baptist Church, Rev. Gordon S. Wilson, pastor. The church has been decorated for the Advent and Christmas season. Two features of these decorations include the Mission Tree, decorated with candles, and the Chrismon Tree, decorated with gold and white symbols of Christ and His teachings by the Beacon Class of the Berean Baptist Church.

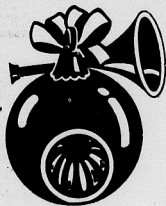

The idea of the Chrismon Tree was conceived by Mrs. Florence Spencer of the Ascension Evangelical Lutheran Church of Danville, Virginia, in 1967.

It invariably happens that a visitor from the North Pole arrives during the Christmas concerts of the Crystal Band. Parents are, therefore, encouraged to bring their children to this holiday gathering.

At the conclusion of Sunday's concert, Christmas cookies and cake will be served by the members of the Historical Society. Barbara Yesson, a member of the Berean Baptist Church and the Historical Society, will preside at the tea table.

For additional information on this concert of Christmas music for concert band, contact Rev. Gordon S. Wilson, 282-1511, or S. Robert Powell, 282-0385.

Mom + Dad and Cousin Peg and OWP & OWP II were all present; everyone had a grand time. I'm not sure how long Mom + Dad stayed during the refreshments section but I do know that they did not rush out at the conclusion of the concert. I am pleased with the way everything went: I was in very good form throughout the evening. The Crystal Band was given a standing ovation by the full house. Very gratifying.

John Klimkewicz appeared as Santa Claus and was well received. George Williams (not a member of the CHSTM but a member of the BSC) was very enthusiastic in helping with the clean up following the concert. 2075

12/18/89 - Doing the dead and keep going.
What else can you do. The major wave of the cold/roup in the hen house has, it appears, passed, although it was my un-happy duty this morning to gather up three dead
birds: Dutch Modern Game Bantam hen, ODR Old English Game standard pullet (my best one), and the male Silver Sebright! Ghastly experience.
The female Cuckoo Belgian and two of the Golden-Laced Wyandotte females are quite sick: it could go either way. It would not surprise me to find them virtually recovered later today or dead.
They bounce back quickly or they die quickly. Fortunately the standard Black springton and most of the Partridge Plymouth Rocks are recovered and four of the Golden Laced<sup>2.</sup> Wyandottes are well. I expect that the "crise" will be more or less over in a day or two. My fervent hope is that I can save enough breeders to re-coup my losses. The pair of Dorkings are also well. This has all been such a nightmare; and the irony of it all at the "Joyous" Christmas season is indeed a cruel one. The new ventilation system is working well and the temperature in the building this morning was in the mid-20's

even though it was below 0°F outside - the two 250-watt infrared bulbs do the job of warming
the building to prevent <sup>roster</sup> comb
damage and excessive water freezing. 2017

3.

Bitter bone-splitting cold last night
and this morning: it was below
0°F at 11 P.M. and colder this morning.
When will we get a reprieve from this nasty weather. Clearly this bitter cold spell has not helped matters with the poultry, even had the weather been milder the past several days I would not have lost, possibly, the birds that I have. Partly to maintain my sanity in the midst of all this illness and death, and partly because the urge to order and buy and raise young Chicks is irresistible, I have begun looking at the Halbach and Deane Bred Egg and Chick catalogues. If I do get some Chicks, I will raise them in a brooder box in the 4.

ben house and thereby use the heat generated by the Chick's heat lamp to warm the poultry building a bit. We shall see. No firm decision has yet been made.

12/14/89 - Historical Society's Annual Meeting and Christmas Dinner —
a rip roaring success

12/17/89 - Historical Society's Crystal Band concert
in the Ocean Baptist Church — a rip
roaring success.

SRP single-handedly <sup>not only</sup> made these two events
possible but

also made them elegant achievements
on the part of the Historical Society. 2079

12/19/89 — 6:30 P.M.

Much progress in the recovery cycle in the hen house during the day: the healthy now far outnumber the ill and that is very re-assuring. Just a day or two ago, two of the female Golden Laced Wyandottes were deathly ill. I was quite certain that I was going to lose them; tonight they are almost entirely back to normal. There seems to be a 2 or 3 day crisis period: foaming at the mouth, eyes stuck shut, coughing. If they get through that, "recovery" is fast. They get their appetite back and then all is OK. I noted tonight that they were almost all fairly enthusiastic ("normal") when I gave them their evening Corn. It made me so happy I almost jumped for joy. We're not "out of the woods" yet, but there appears to be light perceivable at the end of the tunnel.

The first chance I get I will install a ventilator shaft made from a square section of downspout for an eaves trough; possibly I will install two shafts - one as a ventilator exit for fouled air (opening near the floor of the coop) and one as an entrance for fresh air (opening about half way up the height of the walls). also I will try out some insulation on the interior of the building: large sheets of black plastic. The objective is to prevent frozen walls. I have already arranged a curtain type set up in the two primary perching areas and the feed bag curtain appear to be working very well. I will proceed slowly and very cautiously. I don't want to risk upsetting any equilibrium that may now exist in the hen house.

In spite of this brutally cold weather, the Tinker Creek is still open a little and I went down tonight - as I have been doing for a couple weeks (when my 55-gallon water drum froze up) — and brought up two 5-gallon plastic pails of sparkling clear creek water for the birds. I keep the pails in the center of the coop, about 18"

off the floor, and have had good luck in keeping them non-frozen. I use about 5 gallons a day in the poultry house and tippler loft. I love the idea of being able to go down to the very beautiful Tinker Creek for water for the birds.

12-20-89 - More death and more cold weather: it's wearing me down.
It was  $-15^{\circ}\text{F}$  this morning and it felt at least that. Dribal and very oppressive. My dear little Cuckoo Belgian Bantam hen was dead in the cage; Yesterday morning
a Birchen Modern Game <sup>Bantam</sup> Cockerel was dead. How much can I endure.
When will the sickness and death end? Most all of the birds have either been sick (and recovered), have been sick (and died) or are now sick. I am trying very hard to be optimistic and I think that the worst may be over - many are dead, however.

- Partridge Plymouth Rock -
one pullet, one cockerel
- Silver Sebright Cockerel

- Cuckoo Belgian bantam female
- Modern Game bantams -
2 females, 2 males
- Standard O. E. Game pullet
- Standard Buff orpington pullet
- Standard Rhode Island Red cockerel.

On the bright side: ① I put the female Dorking in with the male last night and successful mating immediately took place. I immediately began to think about turning on the incubator; ② most of the Black orpingtons are well; ③ It appears that enough Golden Laced Wyandottes and Partridge Plymouth Rocks will survive to allow me to re-comp my losses; ④ the Jersey Giants are all well, as are all the <sup>Guinea</sup> and <sup>and</sup> tipplers. 12-20-1989: Mountain View, Miss Murphy

Mr. Moss phoned at 6:00 A.M. and asked me to come in for two days for the Special Education teacher. I explained that I was not particularly interested in that assignment and he then said: How about Health? And so I am here for Miss Murphy who has taken virtually all of her students to Clarks Summit State Hospital for a field trip--which means that I have had practically no students thus far today and it is 12:45 P.M. Tant mieux. Devoted several hours this morning to making revisions to my article on "public and private moments" for the 1990 APA Yearbook. I seem to be having a difficult time with the article, but I will prevail and every bit of effort makes the article better.

The horrible cold continues again today and will continue for several more days. I'm not sure what the temperature was this morning, but I'm sure that it was around zero or lower but it did not feel terrible as it did yesterday, when it was fifteen degrees below zero! During the night my precious little bantam hen that I hatched from a Fair egg (she is a cross between a black old english game bantam and something else) died. She is the little dear that hatched the 14 Bobwhite Quail this past summer and raised every one of them. Such a dear little creature. She had such an attractive personality. Just a few days ago she was in the best health imaginable and now she is dead. I wrapped her up in a copy of Poultry Press and buried her in the flower garden. She seemed very un-well last night and her death this morning did not surprise me. I was hoping, of course, that she would rally, but she didn't. Most of the flock seemed to be in good health this morning, and that was re-assuring. This morning has been quite sunny and I'm sure that all is well at the moment in the henhouse. The windows were quite frozen and so I did not open all of the curtains this morning.

Tonight is the Masonic Hall Association's Christmas gathering and that should be fun. Tonight is also Choir Practice at the Berean Baptist Church and since I shall read the part of the narrator in the Christmas Cantata on this Sunday morning I shall have to attend Choir Practice and the Dinner. It should not be that difficult to work out.

As I flipped through the December issue of POULTRY PRESS last night, I discovered that Tommy Stanley, Route 3, Box 672, Ashland, VA 23005 raises and sells four of the varieties and breeds of poultry that I am most interested in: Silver Gray Dorkings, Partridge Plymouth Rocks, Golden-Laced Wyandottes, and Black Orpingtons. I have sent for a price list on day-old chicks and will very probably order 25 chicks for delivery around February 1st, 1990. Most likely: 6 SGD, 6 PPR, 7 GLW, 6 BO. The standard Black Minorca pullet and the standard Rhode Island Red pullet that I will give to Cecil Rose one of these days are doing fine. The Minorca was ill but is now in excellent health; the RIR has a cold at the moment. No giving will take place until both birds are in excellent health and condition. Since my Silver Sebright cockerel has died, possibly I can persuade Cecil to either give me/sell me/lend me a cockerel so that I can raise some Silver Sebrights this Spring and Summer. Given the death of my Cuckoo Belgian bantam female, I shall have to find a female somewhere if I am to raise any of them this year. Hopefully the pair of Birchen Modern Game Bantams will survive the Winter. I think I will be fine for raising Black Orpingtons, Partridge Plymouth Rocks, Golden-Laced Wyandottes, Silver Gray Dorkings and Jersey Giants.

Not surprisingly, I am now focusing on my flower garden for this coming Spring and Summer and on the chicks that I will hatch at the end of the Winter. Project (transitive verb) and live. Mary Rose is a master at it.

12/26/89 - Breathing space again. Three major SRP concerns are now / can now be the subject of these notes:

1. poultry illness under control / gone
2. sentence coed of <sup>ally</sup> last week now passed
3. Christmas now over.

→ gigantic sigh of relief. Only the Black Breasted Red O.E. Game Cockerel and one Greden-Land Wyandotte pullet are un-well and that is wonderful news. Today was the first day in a couple of weeks that I did not put medication (teramycin or aureomycin) in the drinking water. Egg laying has increased by the Black springtown; the Locking hen is now laying and one of the American Game laid an egg today. Optimism once again reigns in the hen house, and 2093

that is cause for dancing in the streets.<sup>2.</sup>
Some additional shifting about has to be done in the inside of the coop but not too much. I will move the pen of Jersey Giants tomorrow morning. They are such pigs: I hate them, but I can not do anything with them because Cecil Roca gave them to me as a special present. I long for the day when I can get rid of them all.

Virtually all of the Eastern United States has been subjected to active air for about the past 10 days. At one point last week it was  $25^{\circ}$  below zero<sub>11</sub>, <sup>here at Eckdale</sup> and $-10^{\circ}$ ,  $-15^{\circ}$  F for several days. It has been, apparently, the coldest December

in the past 100 years. Horrible! The temperature got up to about 20°F on Christmas and it felt like the first day of Spring. How relative things are. Again tonight it is supposed to be very cold (0°F to -10°F) and then fairly mild for several days. Nothing to be done but sit it out. About 8" of snow now on the ground.

Christmas was very nice at the Hornestead, but I'm glad it's over. We were 5 at dinner: Mom & Dad, DWP, Cousin Peg and SRP. Roast turkey & dressing, mashed potatoes, rutabaga, fresh whole-berry cranberry sauce, broccoli/cauliflower, nut bread.

black olives, turkey gravy, pumpkin pie & coffee. Naturally we all overate. We ate at about 1 P.M. after dinner, Peg & I took a 20 minute walk up around the barn & re-grouped. Dad finished up wrapping his presents. We then gathered in the living room and opened presents:

Given by SRP:

- to Mom: a bouquet of dried flowers from my garden (including strawflowers and Chinese lanterns); a 10" high pear-shaped glass jar, filled with SRP prepared potpourri and Chinese lanterns

to Mom + Dad — a year's subscription to Bridges + Words

to Dad: four sticks of venison + pork Kielbasa that was made from deer that Todd Dobrovian shot

to DWP: a floral chenille
bedspread; a goldfish bowl full of pine wood shavings and poppy
heads — the whole scented with oil of cedar

to Peg — a bottle of Balsamic vinegar; a bar of Greek soap; two foxtail lily
bulbs.

To DWP II — a single silver dollar <sup>2097</sup>

proof coin; ordered 7/15/89 - in honor of the Bicentennial of the U. S. Congress

12/27/89 - One year ago today mail delivery service was inaugurated here at RD1, Box 48-E, Union Dale - and I must say that it is grand to have "rural free delivery." The Union Dale Postmaster is Russell J. Sheldon; my postman's name is Russell Peltz.

A reprise of the intense cold again - at least  $-15^{\circ}\text{F}$  this morning and it felt it; the two final sick birds died during the night, and that was a blessing. At the moment, I am pleased to report, all of my birds are in robust health and I believe that I can keep them that way throughout the winter. This morning I constructed a pen for the Jersey Giants and moved five of the six hens therein. I may move either the cock or the cockerel in with the hens. Possibly not. As much as I dislike the Giants, I <sup>207</sup> don't want the roosters to mess up the back of the hen through 2.

experience mating. The Black Orpington pullets are now beginning to lay well; also the several year old Buff Orpington (the bird that I <sup>have</sup> had longer than any other — at least three years, maybe four.) hen has started to lay — it would be just like her to set in the middle of the winter. I swear that if she did I would somehow arrange a set up which would make it possible for her to incubate some eggs. The standard BBR old English Game pullets will also lay shortly; and the Birchen Modern Game pullet seems to be moving in that direction as well. all of this, of course, is very exciting.
— met with Dan Perry of the National Park Service (also Director of the Lion 2108

Furnace) today from 1-3 P.M. —
 he's a nice enough fellow: he wanted
 (and Rita Scott & Bob Price & I gave him) information on 8 industrial sites in Carbondale. After the first of the year I will make an effort to get a job with the National Park Service.

- Tomorrow (12/28), DWP & I will pay a social visit to Edith Gardner and her sister Gertrude Snyder
 in Danville, PA.
- Last night at about 7:30 P.M., Sharon Sterling and her boy friend, a Mr. Fife, came a-calling here. I invited them into the inner-sanctum and we visited for about 40 minutes;
 Sharon used to be the sextant
 at the New Baptist Church.

12/31/89 - 8:15 P.M. - The year will end quietly, which is not only good but highly desirable. Mercifully, the nasty/vicious arctic weather has passed and a more normal winter prevails: today has been perfectly balmy - the temperature is about 32°F at the moment and it has rained off & on most all day: 8 or 10 inches of snow on the ground. Devoted most of my energy today to "mercières poulés" - winter adjustments to the internal structure of the hen house. Given the projected mild weather for the coming week, I should be able to thoroughly dry out the "damp corners" of the poultry building. I learned a hard lesson about ventilation in this new building - and because I had to learn it during the 10-day vicious cold snap, I lost about 10 very good birds. All of my poultry efforts of recent weeks have been directed at "fine tuning" the new building to winter conditions. all of the birds are now healthy and I am determined that they will remain that way throughout the winter. It is expected that the sun will shine tomorrow and that it will be breezy: it should be a perfect day for "drying out." Egg production: about a dozen eggs per day, about half of them per wee & small. I imagine that I will get about a dozen eggs per day from now to Spring. Even the Modern Game Bantam pullet appears to be preparing to lay. All this makes me very happy, of course.

12/28 - Out & drove to Danville to see Edith Gardner and her sister, Gertrude Snyder: a very 2113 enjoyable day. We arrived at about <sup>3.</sup> 1 P.M. and left there at about 6 P.M.:

arrival ceremonies & visit, then tea & a sandwich, DWPT & I took a walk along the Susquehanna River, more visiting, dinner.
We all had a grand time. a current fantasy of mine is that I can secure a teaching position at either Bloomsburg or Stroudsburg Universities — or in a high school in a farming area of the mid-state region. It appears that I shall have to leave the area. I can not find any work here, despite my best efforts — and it is beginning to get me down. No self esteem & no money. I have to solve this problem; it is too painful
at the moment. What a bizarre state of affairs: a B.A., two M.A.'s & 2114

4.
a Ph.D. and I can't find work! At times such as these I can not help thinking about the fact that in 1971 I turned down a tenure track position in the State University of New York at Oswego! Or that in 1983, I resigned from a $25,000
a year job at Salomon Brothers
in N.Y.C. Not surprisingly, OUP is also investigating the possibility of securing professional employment outside of the area. We have no choice in the matter. Mom & Dad are here: they are both healthy—they are both 76. When the time comes that they need <sup>us</sup> here (or one of us here) we shall have to return (if we are out of the area).
Neither one of us <sup>OUP + SRP</sup> has vast financial resources. One or both of us must <sub>2/15</sub> get together some substantial financial <sup>5.</sup> assets so that we can be prepared to inherit the Russell Homestead and properties. These are serious matters and they must be resolved.

Not surprisingly, I have arrived at a state of mental affair that can be described as follows:
I will probably leave my beloved Elkdale in the course of 1990; I will pack up my art (my household, perennials and birds -- typers, hoppers and poultry) and move elsewhere. Whither shall I fly? That is the question. What about the Historical Society, Elkdale Cemetery, Maplewood Cemetery? My need for professional work will have to take precedence over my various philanthropic 21/6 and civic functions. On 12/27/89, <sup>6.</sup> at 1 P.M., I met with a Dan Perry of the National Park Service - he needed information on 8 historic sites in the Carbondale area. The meeting made me very angry:

over & over again, SRP is raped by a wide variety of organizations all of which only take and never give. I am feeling very betrayed and abused by them all. I should be hired immediately by the NPS as an official of the Lackawanna Valley Heritage Park.
I should have been offered the position as Executive Director of
the Lackawanna Historical Society
there is no one alive more qualified for that job than I am. and yet
I am still trying. I have been so consistently rejected in my 2117

efforts to find "meaningful work" <sup>7</sup>.
that I am on the point of losing confidence in myself — and that is not good. Were it not for my birds, I think I would be a basket case by this point. Another aspect to a current fantasy / projection:
I will secure a teaching job somewhere in the Bloomsburg area and I will live in a rental / work exchange situation on a large farm
there. Wherever I go, my poetry are going with me — that's for certain — and so are my perennials.
The move will not be easy, but I will manage.

I have decided to take photographs in 1990 — possibly one
